The Hungry Sheep Look Up

"The hungry sheep look up and are not fed."

One thought of that line as the President of the United States delivered his message designed to "alleviate" the fears aroused by the fearful might of the new thermonuclear weapons.

He did his best, but as the news services said, there was nothing in his speech which had not been said before.

One had the feeling that the President himself was holding back — that he could not shell down the corn — because the world is at the moment balanced on the sharp point of the present crisis — and may fall either way.

"We will not start a war," said the President.

And that we know —

And yet, for hours before he spoke readers of newspapers, listeners and viewers of radio and television, had been aware of the fact that Secretary of State Dulles had warned the Chinese Communists "that in Indochina they are approaching a form of undisguised aggression which may bring retaliation down upon them."

Delay

There was another reason why the President could not speak out — could not forthrightly bring the nation directly to the salty facts of the lull.

Secretary Dulles revealed that the United States is in "urgent consultation" with other free peoples in the Indochina theater in an effort to draw up, if need be, a free-nation front against the fall of Indochina.

He spoke of united action. He declared that "as of now" he could only deprecate suggestions that the United States would intervene alone if all else failed.

The word deprecate is especially interesting in its application to this crisis. It means "to pray against the possibility of a possible, or impending evil." No where did he totally exclude the possibility of such an evil if all else failed and if a victory in Indochina by Communist arms should expose what is left of Southeast Asia to their advances.

God knows all America will deprecate such an evil—but, it may come.

And if this evil which we urgently deprecate should come we will almost surely meet it with thermonuclear weapons.

We will not venture into the dreary and never-ending business of sending troops into the remorseless jungles and swamps. France has for eight years been doing that.

The "urgent consultation" has included possible use of the atomic weapons.

And, if—

And if this retaliation comes from the free peoples it will start a new world war.

It is inconceivable the Russians want this.

The President could only suggest the H-bomb power—and ignore that the Russians have it and could themselves use it. The President only hinted at this fear of a Pearl Harbor tactic. We were, he said, preparing for any "fit of madness."

So it is that we all seem to be rushing on some unseen and terrible journey, toward a destination unknown and unfixed.

These are poor days for optimists, but there is a chance for a continuation of uneasy peace. So much depends on that French fort, Dien Bien Phu, in Indochina. There is better mettle there than in the leadership of France. If it holds on, France may yet find a way out of her illness which has made the nation "the sick man of Europe."

If it does not, then there might be peace.

If the fort falls the French government likely will topple soon after. The future EDC would next collapse.

In either event the Russians and the Communists may, at Geneva, offer a pledge of peace. It would be folly for them not to do so. They could proceed, without intervention or direct aggression, to enable the momentum of a victory at Dien Bien Phu, to carry them deeper into the politics of Southeast Asia.

All this our people know.

And they are afraid to tell us, or do not deem it wise to speak out. One felt a certain sympathy for the President. He knew the sheep were hungry and that he offered little.

"TOO CONTENT TO INDICT," JURY SAYS AFTER SOUTHERN MEAL. P. D. Christian Beams Approval, Left; Betty Talmadge Offers Sol. Gen. Webb "Evidence"

Sears Quits; Job Offer to Medina Told

By W. H. LAWRENCE
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Saul P. Sears resigned under fire today only five days after he had been named chief counsel for the long-stalled investigation of Sen. McCarthy's row with the Army.

His resignation was followed by a disclosure that the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations earlier had sought Judge Harold R. Medina of New York for counsel, but the U.S. Supreme Court informally but unanimously turned down the proposal. Judge Medina presided over the long trial of the 12 top Communist leaders, convicted of violating the Smith Act.

HE INSISTS
Sears, a 58-year-old pipe-smoking Boston lawyer, had been criticized severely because last week he withheld from the subcommittee that hired him the fact that he had frequently and publicly praised Sen. McCarthy and his work.

Sears insisted today that he could be impartial in this inquiry, but he agreed that the public might not think that he was. He quit at a time when it was clear that the investigating subcommittee members otherwise would have discharged him.

The announcement that the Supreme Court had been approached in an effort to get a federal judge for the job was made by Sen. Mundt (R-SD), temporary chairman of the group.

TV HEARINGS

"Chief Justice Warren presented this request to his associate justices after which the chief justice advised Sen. Mundt that his associates and he were unanimous in deciding against the possibility of asking a federal judge to step down from the bench for such a purpose," Mundt said in a formal statement. "They felt it would establish a dangerous precedent which would not be in the best public interest. Had the Supreme Court decided otherwise, we had decided to ask that Judge Harold Medina be assigned to this task."

Despite this double setback, Sen. Mundt said tonight he remained hopeful that satisfactory

JURY FORGETS HAM'S REMARKS Betty's Chow Spares Hide of TV Comic

By ANNE GOWEN

An old-fashioned Southern menu resulted in a "no bill" Tuesday.

The meal, prepared and served by Mrs. Betty Talmadge, wife of the Georgia governor, so enchanted a Fulton County grand jury and Fulton Sol. Gen. Paul Webb they decided not to "indict" Henry Morgan, TV comedian, for his "slander."

The food—fried ham, turnip greens, blackeyed peas, grits and gravy—was in rebuttal against Morgan's remarks when he and Mrs. Talmadge were guest panelists on a network television show two Saturdays ago.

Morgan's remarks aroused Webb's playful ire that he decided to "indict" Morgan for "libeling and slandering the culinary artistry of Southern womanhood."

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged tonight the United States delayed research on the hydrogen bomb for 18 months and that the nation "may well die" because of the delay.

"If there were no Communists in our government, why did we delay for 18 months—delay our research on the hydrogen bomb, even though our intelligence agencies were reporting, day after day, that the Russians were feverishly pushing their development of the hydrogen bomb?" McCarthy asked.

TV PROGRAM
McCarthy made the charge on a nationwide television program broadcast over CBS. The time was given to him to reply to an attack made on him by CBS newscaster Edward R. Murrow.

McCarthy devoted a large portion of the filmed program to an attack on Murrow.

Either Murrow or McCarthy is for the Communists, McCarthy said, and the other is against the Communists.

POSES QUERY
McCarthy posed the question, "What do the Communists think of me and Edward R. Murrow?" He then read from the Daily Worker of March 9. In that issue, he said, there were seven articles and one principal editorial attacking McCarthy. The same issue, he said, lists as one of the night's "Best Bets on TV" the Ed Murrow show.

McCarthy also read from the Daily Worker of March 11 an article by Communist Party Chairman William Z. Foster which McCarthy said was "a masterpiece of lies."

Dulles Believed Asking Allies To Pledge Indochina Troops; French Hurl B26s Into Battle

Planes Bolster Defenders of Dien Bien Phu

HANOI, Indochina, April 6 (AP)—Ground crews raced against time tonight to hurl into the battle of Dien Bien Phu newly arrived B26 bombers provided by the United States for the French war against the Indochinese Communists.

Military authorities disclosed that most of the 25 additional B26 Martin Marauders promised by President Eisenhower two weeks ago were flown in since Sunday. They were ferried from U.S. Air Force bases in Japan to Red River Delta airfields by American crews.

COMBAT SHIPS

Technicians immediately began servicing the planes for combat operations against the 20,000 fresh Red troops pouring southward from Communist China's border to embattled Dien Bien Phu. They promised to get the planes flying in record time.

French patrols pushed westward 12 miles from the fortress defenses today without encountering enemy resistance. Officials described the report as "very important."

They said it may indicate the Reds are regrouping for another thrust at some other side of the French-held triangle or that French artillery is exacting such a toll the rebels are pulling back out of range.

The high command emphasized, however, that "the battle is not over yet."

NEW FORCE

Red Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap was reported bringing up two divisions of his strategic reserves for what may be a final do-or-die assault on the bastion in northwestern Indochina before the April 29 Geneva conference.

French planes ranged over the jungles and mountains to pound with firebombs and explosives the roads leading to the valley where the French Union garrison has held fast against the numerically superior Communist legions for 23 days.

Returning French pilots said the advance guard of the Communist reinforcements had reached Sonla, some 30 miles or three days march from Dien Bien Phu.

Higgins Acquitted
In Bullpen Death
At Atlanta Jail

Raymond Higgins, 29, was acquitted Tuesday in the city jail bullpen death last month of H. T. Upshaw, 54. Higgins had been named in an indictment charging murder.

The jury deliberated four hours before bringing in a "not guilty" verdict.

In an unsworn statement, Higgins said he saw Upshaw fall and hit his head against the bars of the cell where both were confined on charges of drunkenness.

His counsel contended that death resulted from the fall and head injuries suffered by Upshaw a year earlier.

The state had maintained that Higgins beat and kicked Upshaw, inflicting injuries that caused his death.

Diver Gripped by Octopus Walks From Sea, Smashes Foe on Rocks

SANTA ROSA, Calif., April 6 (AP)—A big octopus seized James (Big Jim) Antone while he was abalone hunting yesterday, but the 265-pound bulldozer operator knew what to do.

He pulled the octopus from the submerged rocks to which it was clinging and walked ashore with it while spectators gasped. Then Big Jim beat the octopus' head against a stone until it released its hold on him and died.

Antone said he was hunting abalone, a mollusk which clings to rocks, at Jenner, a seaport town west of here.

He was up to his neck in the water when the octopus grabbed him, and he was unable to free himself from about six of its eight tentacles.

"I felt something like a muscled piece of wire wrap around my left arm," Antone said. "As I reared back another tentacle attached itself, and then another, another and another."

"It was useless to try to tear the tentacles away so I braced myself, heaved, and ripped it from the rocks."

"It was like a balloon and it kept spitting water all over me as I walked to shore with it."

Castries Sends SOS —For Razor Blades

HANOI, Indochina, April 6 (AP)—Col. Christian de Castries, commanding French troops at beleaguered Dien Bien Phu, sent out an urgent call for help today.

A friend in Hanoi said De Castries messaged his wife: "Send me razor blades and shaving cream."

The message also told Mrs. De Castries, "Everything is fine."

Girl, 11, Starts Hike to Detroit To See Daddy

A tearful, dejected 11-year-old girl Tuesday was discovered walking along the streets in northeast Atlanta.

In her hand she carried an old paper sack filled with apples, a pair of blue jeans and a plain white shirt.

To the police who brought her to headquarters she confided that she had walked 10 miles from her home in Scotland.

"I miss my daddy," she sobbed.

Sgt. Charley Blackwell eventually pieced her story together: Her mother and father were divorced a month ago and the father moved to Detroit, Mich.

Early Tuesday she packed the paper sack with the extra clothing and the apples and set out to find her father.

"I wasn't alone," she protested with tears streaming down her face—"the Lord was with me."

Since she insisted upon continuing the journey, police had no alternative except to call in juvenile authorities.

There were no dry eyes among the headquarters staff when she walked out, bundled in a neat red dress and coat, still clinging to the rumpled paper sack that contained the blue jeans, the shirt and the apples.

She was kept overnight at Juvenile Court.

Report Plan For 7-Nation Army for Asia

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

WASHINGTON, April 6 (INS)—Diplomatic sources said tonight that the United States has asked her allies to make definite commitments on the amount of military force they would contribute to a defense of Indochina.

In Senate debate, GOP leader Knowland of California lent credence to this report by declaring that America's allies must "stand up and be counted" now. Knowland suggested pledges of military contributions to a south-east Asia collective security plan.

BARE OFFER

Diplomatic informants indicated that the proposal that Secretary of State Dulles has made to six allies is, roughly: early establishment of a seven-nation council in which all countries interested in the defense of Indochina will make pledges of contributions to an international military force.

The force would include ground troops as well as air and naval units, according to the sources.

The defensive alliance would be regional rather than United Nations—as was the case in Korea.

Dulles reportedly has consulted with the representatives of Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand and the Philippines.

HALES DULLES

One diplomatic source said the Dulles proposal is a "move in the right direction," and added: "I think something will be done when there is a get-together of all the nations who might be interested in the defense of Indochina enough to put something into the kitty."

With full-dress debate developing in the Senate, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) declared that President Eisenhower should address a joint session of Congress on the Indochina crisis.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) accused the administration of making persistently over-optimistic forecasts of the allied military position in the fighting and called on the United States to bar military aid at the forthcoming Geneva Far Eastern conference if France is not prepared to grant independence to the Associated

Ike Seeks Billion Asia War Aid

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower made a new move toward bulwarking Indochina today by earmarking nearly one-third of next year's cutdown 3½-billion-dollar foreign aid budget for the Asian war.

The President slashed over one billion dollars—58 per cent from European aid funds in a $3,497,700,000 overseas program for the year ending in mid-1955. He sent the measures to Congress today.

SMALLEST SINCE 1948

The over-all program is the smallest since global foreign aid got underway in 1948 and is more than one billion dollars less than the $4,726,000,000 voted by Congress last year.

But it includes $1,122,000,000 for military and economic aid to Indochina, the largest single item in a budget that otherwise reflects a marked scale-down in funds for arms.

MUST BE HELD

Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen, outlining the program to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Indochina is earmarked for 300 million dollars in arms, 800 million in military-supporting expenditures and the balance for economic help.

He said this budget is based on the belief that Indochina must be held and that the war there can be won in two years.

In all, the Far East and the Pacific are bracketed for a total of $1,768,900,000.

Europe is cut from $2,300,000,000 to $1,497,700,000.

World Atomic Pact Urged by Moscow

Soviet Paper Also Asks Far East Security Treaty

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY

NEW YORK Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution
MOSCOW, April 6.—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia today called for an international atomic and hydrogen agreement and for a general Far Eastern security pact.

Izvestia asked that an international agreement be achieved to ban all weapons of mass destruction, including both the atom and hydrogen bombs. It called also for the creation of a system of international inspection and control over this proposed prohibition.

The language employed by Izvestia was generally similar to that which has been utilized in past Soviet discussions of atomic controls.

The declaration on the Far East was the first indication of the general objectives of the Soviet at the Geneva conference which will open April 26.

Izvestia declared that the United States, Britain, France, China and Russia must achieve an agreement upon "security for the Far East."

"This security may be assured," said Izvestia, "as a result of normalization of relations between all the countries of Asia, the independence of which should be acknowledged and the security of which should be guaranteed."

Izvestia did not go into details with respect to its program for recognizing independence of Asian lands and guaranteeing their security.

Izvestia, however, did call for direct conversation between France and Viet Nam as the first phase toward settling the conflict in Indochina.

The newspaper Pravda today published the most extensive discussion of the North Atlantic pact which has appeared in its columns since Molotov's proposal that the United States join a Soviet-sponsored European security plan and Russia join NATO. The principal point made by Pravda was that opposition to the Soviet proposal which had been voiced in the United States clearly indicated that NATO was not defensive as its sponsors contend but offensive, and directed against the Soviet Union as Moscow claims.

LION STILL STRANDED—PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—Pharoah, Philadelphia Zoo lion which wound up in the moat surrounding his cage after a tussle with another lion Sunday, pays no attention to a baited box trap lowered today over the wall of the moat. The trap was dropped down in the hopes that meat inside the box would lure Pharoah the lion. Later in the day Pharoah, seen reclining at left, walked into the contraption, the lid was lowered, and the lion was lifted. Tonight he was back in his cage.

Atom Fuss Leaps to U.S., Truman Says Pact Holds

By JAMES LEE

WASHINGTON, April 6 (INS)—The fury of Britain's debate on H-bomb perils exploded across the Atlantic today and involved former President Truman in a sharp conflict with the White House and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa).

In Kansas City, Truman declared the United States to the Prime Minister of Great Britain. "The agreement reached at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference a Quebec, became an issue as the prime minister clashed with Clement Attlee, the man who succeeded him and who later was unseated by him."

Truman's statement disputed a White House assertion that the 1943 pact is "not in effect at the present time" and brought from Hickenlooper a charge that the president is "either utterly and grossly misinformed, or that someone in the U.S. government has failed to tell the truth."

Truman said the "latest controversy" over disclosure of the agreement was a "lot of hooey," adding: "It's like a lot of other things stirred up to cause the Democrats trouble."

"IS CORRECT"
Shortly after Hickenlooper, vice chairman of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, made his statement, presidential news secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters: "Sen. Hickenlooper is correct." But he declined to say when the 1943 atomic pact was canceled.

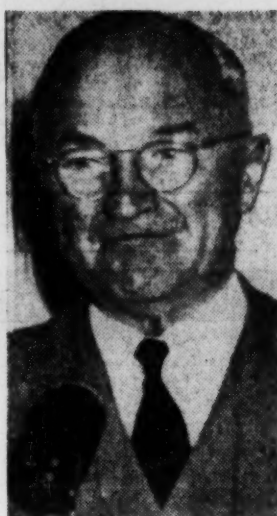

The agreement pledged that the U.S. and Britain would never use the A-bomb against each other; never use it against a third power without each other's consent; never divulge atomic secrets to third parties without such consent, and that peacetime atomic advantages would be dealt with "in terms of the Postdam conference." Truman said the 1943 agreement was renewed with Attlee "right after Potsdam."

Attlee came to Washington as quickly as he could for the purpose of renewing the agreement.

Truman said the agreement "does not apply to the hydrogen bomb. . . . It applies only to the atomic fission process."

"KNEW ABOUT IT"
He added that the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), former Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.), the late Rep. Sol Bloom (D-NY) and the late Rep. Charles Eaton (R-NJ) knew about it.

Hickenlooper, who was chairman of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee during the GOP 80th Congress in 1947-48, said the agreement was so "obnoxious" to him that he enlisted the late Sen. Vandenberg's aid in having it set aside.

Tyrants as Dangerous As the Disloyal---Adlai

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says that while reckless use of government authority may harm private reputations, it can do even greater damage to the reputation of the government itself.

"It is always a lamentable thing when the good name of an individual is unfairly taken from him by anyone," Stevenson says, "but when the filing is done by government or with its connivance, government does immeasurable harm to itself, and the effects on the world we live in are more calamitous than we presently perceive."

TELLS IDEAS
Stevenson sets forth his views on "the reputation of the government" in an article in the April issue of a national magazine. The 1952 Democratic nominee for president confines himself to a general discussion of the topic and names no one as being reckless with government authority.

Zone Study Extension Held Need

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Municipal Planning Board members are considering a proposal to extend the contract of Harland Bartholomew & Associates, St. Louis planning experts, until a modern zoning ordinance and a major street plan, prepared by the firm, is finally passed and launched.

Max M. Cuba, board chairman, Tuesday appointed a four-man subcommittee to study the need for continued expert advice. Paul Miller, J. J. Nicholson, Henry Toombs and Al Hendley will make the study and file recommendations.

Cuba said the comprehensive surveys, affecting all properties in Atlanta and Fulton County, must be considered thoroughly before any attempt is made to enact them into law and he is "reasonably certain that adoption cannot be asked within the next 30 days, the time limit for which the Bartholomew firm was engaged."

No fee was mentioned in preliminary discussions, Cuba said. He added "that is one of the things the subcommittee will consider." The company has proposed that its contract be extended for the remainder of the year, according to reports. The studies were begun about 15 months ago with the City and Fulton County agreeing to expend approximately $80,000 for the surveys and recommendations.

Board members Tuesday completed a study of the 92-page proposed new zoning ordinance and began a study of zoning maps which will accompany the written ordinance. They also completed a preliminary study of maps for that portion of Atlanta which lies in DeKalb County.

Map studies will be resumed at 2 p.m. Thursday. Cuba estimated that at least two weeks will be required to complete the survey of the maps. After that, public hearing must be scheduled before the zoning and major street plan ordinances are submitted to Atlanta aldermen and Fulton County commissioners for final adoption.

Mayor Backs Roads

Mayor Hartsfield Tuesday plugged for two West End traffic arteries which will cost more than $1,000,000 when completed.

He assured S. B. Avery, president of the Southwest Citizens' Association that he will urge widening and improvement of West End Dr. to serve the proposed Fulton County industrial development on the Chattahoochee River.

He also insisted that the access road to Marietta be extended from Peyton Rd. to Gordon Rd. The joint Atlanta-Fulton County Bond Commission has earmarked $600,000 for that project, Hartsfield reported.

Urban League Report

Park facilities for Negroes probably could be obtained more readily if one or more Negroes were appointed to serve on the City's Citizens Advisory Board, a report by the Atlanta Urban League points out. The league is a bi-racial group. "Knowledge of and acquaintance with needs of all the peoples could be more easily acquired if Negro citizens were included in the board's membership," the report said.

Parking Lot On Square Is Decatur Plan

The Decatur Parking Authority Tuesday night announced plans for the last of four municipal parking lots, the newest to be located on Court Square in the heart of the business district.

The City Commission approved the authority's plan for an 18-car lot at the intersection of West Ponce de Leon avenue and West Court Square.

A five-year lease for the property will be drawn up by the city attorney for the commission's approval.

Charles D. McKinney Jr., chairman of the parking authority, said the lot probably would have meters for one-hour parking at 10 cents.

Two lots, one at Marshall and Herring streets and one on North McDonough street across from Decatur High School, have been graded and will be paved and placed in service as soon as weather permits, McKinney said.

The other lot, proposed for location on South Candler street off East College avenue, is being held up by opposition of residents.

'JE'VER SEE A MILLION BUCKS IN COLD CASH? THAT'S WHAT THESE FOLKS SEE. SURE, THEY'RE BUG-EYED

Mere Million in Cash Goes on Display Here

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

"After all, it's only money," said the man, looking at a million dollars.

Six Brink's guards straightened their gun holsters and eyed him uneasily.

"And it says here," he went on, reading from a pamphlet "that it would take you 27 days, 18 hours and 40 minutes to count a million one dollar bills by hand."

"You get the money, honey. I've got the time!" quipped the little woman by his side.

They were among 1,000 Georgians who filed through the lobby of the Henry Grady Hotel within a few hours Tuesday to gaze at a plexiglass covered box containing a cool green million dollars in bills ranging from $1 to $10,000. The display, dreamed up by a beer company to point up its slogan, "The Beer With the Million Dollar Flavor," will be at the Henry Grady from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday and then will be moved to the Municipal Auditorium where it may be viewed from 3 to 6 p.m.

As if a million dollars weren't scenery enough, the brewing company retained two Atlanta beauties, Louise Hayes, Miss Atlanta of 1952, and Louise McGahee, a model, to further embellish the view by handing out souvenirs consisting mainly of a handful of imitation $10,000 bills. Which attracted the most admiring glances?

"Well, I don't know about the public," said one of the Brink's guards grinning. "But I think I can answer for the Brink's and Pinkerton men. We'd lot rather look at a couple of alive pretty girls than a lot of pictures of dead presidents."

The pictures of dead presidents, as artistically exhibited on genuine, fresh-from-the-mint (via the First National and the Federal Reserve Bank) spending money, did attract their following, however.

Everybody wanted to know who was on the $10,000 bill (Salmon P. Chase) and most people jumped from the big money to packets of $2 bills, the rarely seen "bad luck dough" carrying a picture of Thomas Jefferson.

Miss Marion Rowen of the Chicago publicists retained by the brewing company to dramatize the fact that its formula actually is insured for a million dollars, laughingly asked one glum gentleman if he'd care to take the exhibit home with him.

"Before or after taxes?" he countered cautiously.

The new 200-horsepower Buick Century Convertible—sleek, smart, spirited—and available in gorgeous new summer colors.

We have a line the gals go for

(Have you seen our Spring Fashion Show?)

You can't fool the ladies when it comes to styling.

From clothes and hemlines, to cars and color schemes—they insist on a fresh new look and a fresh new change—and anything else won't do.

So it's easy to see why the gals—bless 'em!—have been going for Buick in a great big way—going for the glamorous modernity of these new-day automobiles ever since the first public showing a few short months ago.

From the beginning, they've been going for the sleeker, longer, lower lines—the futuristic shaping of the new windshields—the stunning décor of the striking new fabrics—the clean simplicity of the new instrument panels.

But you ought to see how they go for the gay new car models in Buick's Spring Fashion Show! Fresh new Convertibles, Rivieras and Estate Wagons never before available—and in gorgeous new summer colors never shown before!

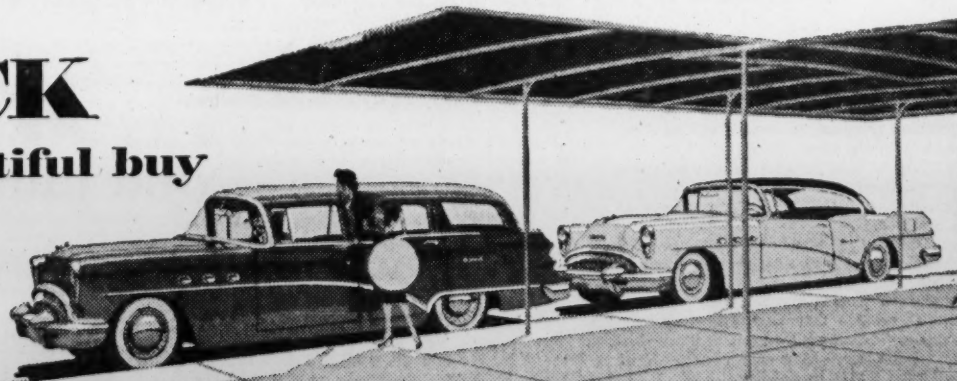

And you ought to see how they go—as the men certainly do—for the thrilling new V8 power, the buoyant new ride, the superb new control, and the almost effortless handling ease that are all part and parcel of every new 1954 Buick.

Why not visit our Spring Fashion Show and see for yourself the fresh new tomorrow that's here now—in today's Buick? Then we can show you the prices that make this beauty the buy of the year.

Sears' Withdrawal Is None Too Soon

Samuel P. Sears, Boston lawyer, has withdrawn as special counsel for a Senate investigating committee looking into the McCarthy-Army controversy.

It was about time. In fact, he was late.

That the committee thought so is evidenced by the vote. It accepted his resignation, 6 to 0. And quickly.

The Sears episode has an aroma which is like that of the McCarthy methods. In fact, it fits the pattern. The evidence was never formally presented. None the less, there were charges that before Mr. Sears offered himself as counsel these events had transpired:

1. His name had been suggested for the job by Mrs. Joe McCarthy.

2. He had praised McCarthy and his methods.

3. He had raised money to help McCarthy in his election campaign.

4. He had tentatively agreed to take part in a debate defending the Wisconsin senator.

Whatever the validity of these charges, they and the appearance of Mr. Sears as a "volunteer" caused millions to believe a nice pot of whitewash for McCarthy was being made ready. Count us among those who thought so.

It will be difficult to find a good counsel. But there must be one somewhere who has ability and who is not afraid to do his duty—even though McCarthy's smear technique will dog him for so doing.

A New World Crisis Dims Ike's Assurances

Before President Dwight D. Eisenhower could speak to the nation in an attempt to dissipate some of its atomic fears, events increased those fears with the result that the President could only repeat what he had said before—this nation will not seek war; McCarthy-like methods are un-American; and fear of domestic Communists is exaggerated.

The nation—and the world—is approaching one of those tense and acutely delicate diplomatic crises. We are seeking to persuade the French, British, Australians and New Zealanders to join in issuing a warning to Communist China against intervention in Indochina.

This comes on top of Secretary Dulles' even more dramatic statement that in the Indochina theater he is urgently consulting free peoples. He also did not rule out the grim possibility of American intervention in Indochina if Communists should succeed there and if we are not joined by other nations.

If we do intervene, it will of necessity be with atomic weapons since the United States cannot send troops there to carry on years of jungle fighting.

More and more, eyes are on the French fortress of Dien Bien Phu, surrounded and outnumbered, but holding on with American weapons and aircraft. If it holds, there will be a very slight lessening of tension. If it falls, there will be more.

It was not possible for the President to allay any fears while his Secretary of State was forced to deal with more, and greater ones.

Distinguished Senators Debate the Tax Bill

Our laws are fearfully and wondrously made!

For evidence we present excerpts from the Congressional Record, March 24, Pages 3541-51, on the Senate's excise tax debate:

(Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.)—"I do not subscribe to a tax theory that encourages a woman to wear a mink coat, but taxes her if she does not toast her bread in an old oven."

(Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.)—"Does he (Douglas) not know that all furs are subject to the tax, and . . . that most of the furs are muskrat and rabbit, and not mink?"

(Douglas)—"If we do not enact a positive antifur program . . . people will be chasing rabbits in the near future."

(Millikin)—"That is part of the senator's gloom and doom theory."

(Douglas)—"Is the senator an apostle of zoom and boom?"

(Millikin)—"I'm about to hand the distinguished senator a tear bottle into which he can weep."

(Douglas)—"I am proposing a method which will remove fear and will wipe away the tears, not only from the eyes of the United States manufacturers, but also from the eyes of the United States housewives."

(Millikin)—"I was especially affected by his description of the poor ladies (housewives) on their knees, suffering, while the rich cover themselves with diamond tiaras and with blue mink or fox furs."

(Douglas)—"I said sables."

(Millikin)—"The only sable that is in the Senate is to be found on the sable-bedded, black, funeral clothes of the distinguished Senator from Illinois, where he cloaks himself in gloom. . . . The senator has told us . . . 'This tax reduction bill is for the rich, for the carriage trade . . . the Cadillac trade.' . . . Dear Senator, if that did not come out of your mouth I would call it sheer claptrap—and it is still claptrap, even though it comes out of your mouth."

(Douglas)—"The senator from Colorado reminds me of a sophisticated rhetorician intoxicated by the exuberance of his own verbosity."

(Millikin)—"Let us cut out the 'bunk' about how this tax bill is for the benefit of the rich. . . ."

(Douglas)—"Then what about the cabaret tax?"

(Millikin)—"The cabaret tax is not a den-of-sin tax."

(Douglas)—"I did not say it is a den-of-sin tax, but how many working men go to the Stork Club, the Twenty-three (sic) Club, and other such places, where gay blades like the senator from Colorado are wont to congregate?"

(Millikin)—"The senator . . . is preoccupied, for some strange reason, with the Stork Club and other fancy clubs where I assume, curvaceous and attractive girls gather. . . ."

(Douglas)—"I have never been in a night club in my life."

City Government Shows Alertness to Problems

Atlanta's city government continues to strive to keep up with the demand for services and improvements made necessary by growth.

Monday the Board of Aldermen took three progressive steps in the direction of easing immediate problems and of preparing for the future.

Revenue certificates in the amount of $2,200,000 were sold to finance improvements and extensions in the water system in the current year. The securities brought a premium of $43,472. As Finance Committee Chairman Ralph Huie put it: "That is a tribute to Atlanta's credit."

The board accepted a major street plan study, prepared by one of the nation's leading engineering firms, as a guide to solution of some of the pressing traffic problems.

Land acquisitions for another Negro park in the Butler Street area also were ordered. This civic improvement is badly needed. A growing city needs parks and recreational facilities. To neglect them during the period of growth and expansion is to store up future headaches.

We congratulate Atlanta's city government for its continued awareness of our problems and for its anticipation of those to come.

Stock Market on Wheels Gets Investors' Vote

The most intriguing story on the financial pages this week has been the item saying that the firm of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane is offering investment service on wheels.

They've launched three buses which are complete brokerage offices on wheels. That means that, in the areas the rolling stock marts will serve, opportunity not only knocks, but it rolls up to the door on rubber.

And when Amalgamated Uranium shows a sudden and pronounced rise and the inveterate investor fails to cash in on the trend, he has a ready excuse—"I missed the bus."

Nature's Endowment Needs Some Sprucing

Spring's soft breezes, for some mercenary reason, remind us of tourists' hard cash.

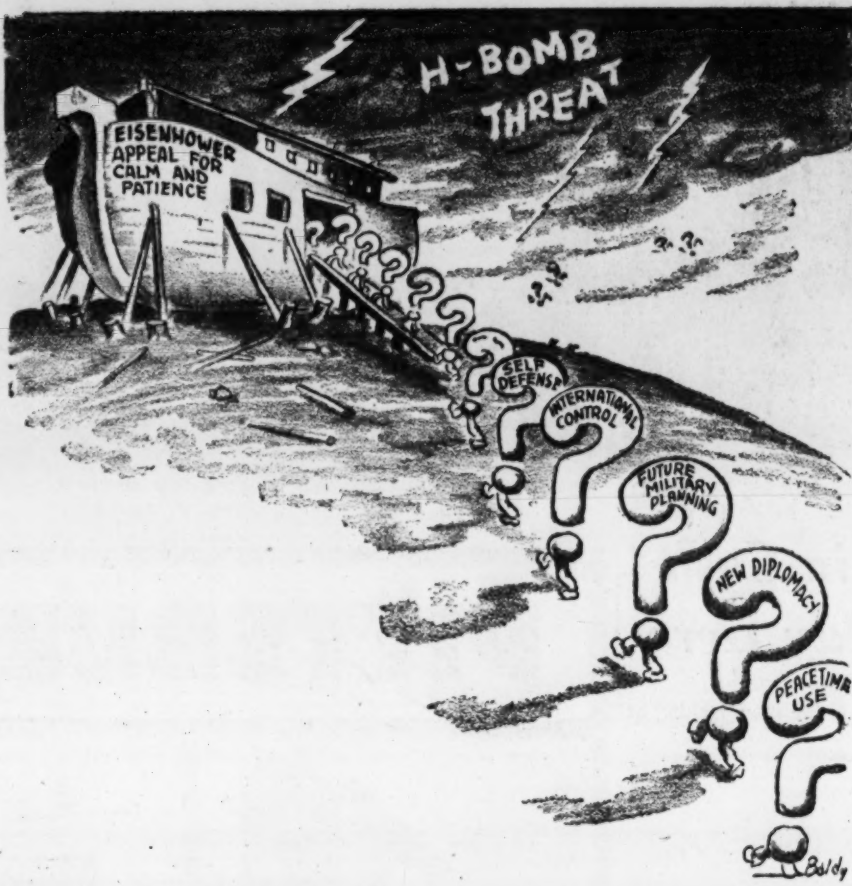

We here in Northeast Georgia ought to get more of it. Nature certainly intended that we get a greater share than we have because she has endowed us with natural resources for a tremendous tourist industry and has patiently left it with us while we try to capitalize on the benefits.

Tours for travel editors and travel association directors, such as have been sponsored by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce and other organizations, do a lot of good. They help bring the people here for a look.

With simultaneous improvement in the facilities for tourists, in expediting their travel and in giving them easier routes to follow and more comfortable places to stay, such publicity stunts can yield wonderful results.

We still say that local people making the most of a few inexpensive ideas can contribute greatly to improving tourist travel in this area. Let's mark scenic routes and tell people where things are to see; chop down trees blocking spectacular views; encourage local friendliness and hospitality; publish a few tourist guide folders telling motorists of the adventures awaiting them in mountain and lake excursions.

Then we can stand back and watch the crowds go by.

Our Teachers Are Paid on 12-Month Basis; Use Vacation Time for Study and Travel

Athens — The statement that teachers are paid for twelve months, and work nine, having three months vacation with pay, is very misleading.

It is not that teachers are enjoying three months vacation with pay as such, but their own earnings during the school year are divided into twelve months pay as they would have it, in order to be in position to have money for improved education, such as study and travel.

We talk about having better qualified teachers. How can a teacher improve? How can we have better teachers if they are to remain in classrooms all year 'round?

GOP, Democratic Coalition Returns

WASHINGTON—An old political combination that used to plague Democratic Presidents Roosevelt and Truman is rising up to harass Republican President Eisenhower. This is the well-known Republican-Southern Conservative Democratic coalition that blocked many a New Deal-Fair Deal social welfare legislative project. It was not until recently that this alliance in Congress had a chance to work out on the Eisenhower program.

Nor did it hesitate. A few days ago the coalition bared its teeth in the House to defeat President Eisenhower's request for a four-year schedule of 140,000 public housing units, 35,000 a year. A similar combination may operate in the realm of other less-accepted Eisenhower proposals.

The resurgence of the old familiar Republican-Southern Democratic coalition was forecast some weeks ago by this reporter if and when the opportunity came. It seems likely to have the effect suggested then. This is for the administration to put its chief reliance for a social welfare record for the fall elections on its proposals to expand the Social Security System to cover 10,000,000 more persons and provide moderate increases in benefits, among other provisions.

Social Security now is so generally accepted that it is palatable to most Republicans in Congress and, furthermore, its political potential is rated high.

An ironic aspect of the House action on the President's housing program was the embarrassing situation in which some Republican leaders found themselves, notably Majority Floor Leader Charles Halleck (Ind.), who confessed that he always had voted against public housing before.

Kennesaw's Humor Eludes This Reader

Mount Berry—Everyone of course has a perfect right to his opinion concerning "Kennesaw." Instead of reading with interest we read with amazement the favorable comments and expressions concerning the humor of this cartoon.

There must be a semblance of truth and reality to our cartoons or we pass them up. We can follow Gasoline Alley, Orphan Annie, in fact, nearly all the Constitution's comic strips except "Kennesaw."

HARRY RAYMOND PIERCE.

Lawrence Applauded For Raising Issues

Seima, Ala.—I certainly think that Mr. Lawrence raised some important issues when he pointed out that Gov. Stevenson and others who are so "concerned" over the morale of the Army now didn't seem to think it so mattered when Truman "humiliated" Gen. MacArthur before the whole world or when Gen. Van Fleet charged and a congressional committee later reported that an adequate supply of ammunition had been withheld from our troops during the fighting in Korea.

It also holds that these same so-called "liberals" can find nothing irregular with the methods and procedures of the congressional committees which investigate crime, rackets, waterfront troubles etc., even though witnesses before those committees are "browbeaten," humiliated, and have their civil rights violated just as often as do witnesses before committees investigating communism.

Here's How We Became 'The 48'

Chances of statehood for Hawaii and Alaska blow hot and cold with the winds of politics. As they do, history reminds that we have not always been "The 48 States." Fact is we have been only since 1912 when Arizona was admitted to complete the pattern. Even the Original Thirteen are numbered—by the date they ratified the Federal Constitution. Georgia rates as No. 4, having signed up behind Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The United States was a yearling before Rhode Island qualified as No. 13. Little Rhode wasn't eager about the new setup. It took a lot of coaxing and much economic pressure to bring her in under the flag.

The constitution makers expected additions to the family. They said Congress could admit new states, no strings attached except they couldn't carve a state from another state nor merge two states or parts of states without the consent of the merged.

Vermont was the first admitted by Congressional Act. The Green Mountain State became No. 14 in 1791. Kentucky and Tennessee got at the table in 1792 and 1796. Ohio made the grade in 1803. Louisiana was inducted just in time to get in on the War of 1812.

The statehood stork made regular deliveries between 1816 and 1824, bringing Indiana, Mississippi, Illinois, Alabama, Maine and Missouri, one a year and in that order. Then the bird hit a slump. The trouble was the political balance of power in Congress, much as now except that slavery was the issue.

Congress had begun to admit states in the manner Noah filled the ark, two by two, one South and the other North, starting with Maine and Missouri. Then came Arkansas (1836) and Michigan (1837) and in 1845 Texas and Florida to be offset by Iowa and Wisconsin soon after that.

The gold strike made California a state in 1850, when San Francisco was much farther from Washington than Honolulu is today. Minnesota, Oregon and Kansas qualified in time to be included in the War Between the States. West Virginia and Nevada were war babies, the former by Caesarian.

Nebraska attained statehood in 1867 and Colorado in 1876. After that states came in bunches like bananas—the Dakota twins, Montana and Washington in 1889, Idaho, Wyoming in 1890. Utah was allowed to become a state in 1896 after the Mormons had given up "E Pluribus Unum" as the ratio between male and female in the same family. Indian Territory became Oklahoma in 1907. Four years later New Mexico and Arizona filled it out, eight stars across and six down.

The Dust of Life Is Blowing Now

Where does the golden dust come from—that soft, fine powder that fills the air these days?

It drifts through every window and floats on every breeze that blows, covering everything. Housewives pursue it fiercely, with dustcloth and with vacuum cleaner but their labors are useless. As soon as they remove it, it comes back again, drifting in little windrows on the table tops, like the dusty plains of Kansas in miniature.

It comes from the trees, I know. But which trees? Does it drift down from the pines, the oaks, the elms or the hickories? Is it waste, a useless byproduct of the burning spring? Or is it the very stuff of life itself?

George, the yard man, holds to the latter theory. George is no botanist. He is at heart a gardener, a man who knows about mulch, and humus, and what happens to seeds when you put them in the earth. He is a lover of all growing things and the implacable foe of bugs and borers.

He is also, at heart, an artist whose canvas is the brown earth, and whose pigments are the reds and greens and blues of nature which he blends with the hand of a master. He is doubly an artist in that he paints in one season a picture whose color and balance and symmetry cannot be seen until months have passed.

He can plant dry, dead-looking bulbs and cuttings in the fall when all the earth is dead, laying them in beds and rows and clusters, all the while seeing in his mind the picture he is painting for the spring. He knows where to put the pink ones so that they will not be overwhelmed by the scarlet reds, and where to place the whites and yellows and the varicolored ones, so that when they bloom their colors will sing together as harmoniously as a symphony.

George knows about the yellow dust.

Blind Bartimeus Sat On Life's Sidelines

There are six main steps in the Christian gospel. We see each of them clearly illustrated in the story of Jesus and Bartimeus (Mark 10:46-52). First, there is the need. In this case it was physical blindness. "Blind Bartimeus sat by the highway side begging" the story says and immediately our hearts go out to him.

We would rather lose our hearing, or our ability to speak, or even our arms or legs than to lose our sight.

But there are needs even greater than physical sight. In his novel The Nazarene, Sholem Asch imagines a blind man mocking Jesus and the Lord replies, "What shall it avail if thou art made seeing with thy eyes and thy heart remaineth blind?"

People who have let hate, greed, selfishness or something else blind their hearts are in even greater need. The need might be the burden of a guilty conscience, or the loss of a reason for living, or a broken heart, or some depressing fear or some other need.

Because of that need in our lives that we ourselves cannot meet, we feel that life is passing us by. Bartimeus was not out in the procession marching with his fellows, he sat by the highway side—he was on the sideline. Maybe he had become afflicted with an even worse need in that he had given up and become resigned to his place. He could see no better days ahead—he had grown hopeless. Whatever our need, realizing it is the first step of the Christian gospel. Second, is the awakening of our belief in Christ and our desire for Him. Doubtless some passerby said to Bartimeus, "Why don't you get up from the sideline of life and make yourself count for something?" "Pitifully he replied, "Don't mock me. You know I would except I am blind. I cannot do anything."

In my imagination I can hear the man's reply: "There is a man named Jesus, of the house of David. He has been doing marvelous things for people. He caused the daughter of Jairus to live again, he fed five thousand people with one little boy's lunch, he healed ten lepers, he quieted the wild man who lived in the cemetery, he has caused deaf men to hear and even blind men to see."

That is the best news Bartimeus has ever heard. Hope begins to rise in his heart, a desire to meet Jesus takes possession of him and he begins to feel the thrill of a new expectancy. First, we must realize our need. Second, we must believe Christ can meet that need.

Ike's Speech Was TV 'Fireside Chat'

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower made on Monday night the best television presentation any public man has made since the new medium has come to the American people. It was an outstanding performance because it was natural, informal and simple. Whether this was the result of careful coaching, or special training by the experts, the result offers a challenge to public speakers hereafter to match his style of delivery and simplicity.

Unlike some of the President's previous appearances when, with his eyes on a prompting device invisible to his audience, he has read lines that seemed to be poorly phrased from the standpoint of the hearers, this didn't seem to be a speech at all—it was just a talk.

In his informal conversations with callers, the President has always seemed at ease, never lacking for a simple word or phrase to make a point. Now he has achieved the same sort of informality before the television cameras and that is an important feat.

Regardless of the content of the talk—and opinions will differ on the merits of some sections of it—the net impression left on a fair-minded or unpartisan listener was one of sincerity and earnestness. His words carried conviction. The same kind of delivery in a political campaign would be tremendous on the vote-getting side. But it is precisely because Mr. Eisenhower wasn't asking for votes, and wasn't talking politics, that he attained the same kind of approval the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt

Sent to Milledgeville In 225-Stab Slaying

A lunacy commission reversed an earlier decision and Tuesday ordered a Chattahoochee Valley housewife, charged with the butcher knife slaying of her father, committed to the State Hospital for the Insane.

Mrs. Dorothy McDaniel, 41, of Lafayette, who police have quoted as saying she stabbed her father, J. W. Ellis, after he threatened her with the knife, was transferred to the hospital at Milledgeville immediately after the hearing.

Sheriff W. F. Harmon's office said. The commission, composed of two doctors and a representative of the county attorney, last week declared Mrs. McDaniel "not a fit patient for the hospital for the insane."

County Attorney G. W. Langford said the decision was reversed when it was assured that Mrs. McDaniel would not be released except to the custody of Sheriff Harmon.

Ellis, 71, was slain March 24. Corner Hill Pope said there were about 225 stab wounds in his body and his head was almost severed.

2 Bond Issues

Clinch County voters will go to the polls April 28 to decide two bond issues of $120,000 each which have been proposed to provide additional schools and a new hospital. . . . Charles Collins, 18, of near Wadley died in a Louisville hospital of injuries received in a swimming pool accident, despite efforts of doctors and nurses to save his life. . . . Thirty-two new students entered Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro at the beginning of the spring quarter to bring total enrollment to 508.

Jury To Rule On Chatham Treasure Find

SAVANNAH, April 6 (AP)—A Superior court jury will rule on ownership of thousands of dollars found in a rooming house closet here.

Louis Brass, owner of the property, claims Sgt. and Mrs. Joe Benton found some $10,000 in the closet, which he asserts belongs to him as owner of the property. The money, said by Mrs. Benton to be some $5,000, is claimed by the Bentons as caretakers of the rooming house and finders of the treasure.

Mrs. Benton says she found the money while cleaning a closet. She claims Brass told her she might keep anything she found in the closet.

Benton and his wife have been named defendants by Brass in a suit to recover the money. Benton is a sergeant at Hunter Air Force Base here.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms. . . . To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pills must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do. . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredients go right to work—killing Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge—the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

What every good cook knows:

Just a little difference in ingredients makes a big difference in cooking results

Snowdrift is just a little lighter than any other shortening—and that can make the big difference in giving your family lighter, more digestible fried foods.

Snowdrift gives just a little more safety than ordinary shortenings, because it fries perfectly at correct high temperatures. That can make the big difference in digestibility of fried foods.

Snowdrift's ingredients are just a little costlier than any other solid shortening (yet you pay no more). That can make the big difference in better tasting foods, whether fried or baked.

No other shortening at any price is so creamy, so digestible—and so light!

Whitfield Wins State C. of C. Farm Honors

By JACK GILCHRIST
Constitution Farm Editor

DALTON, April 6—Whitfield County was recognized here Tuesday by State Chamber of Commerce officials for having made the "greatest agricultural achievement during the past year of any county in the state."

The recognition came during a meeting of the Dalton Rotary Club when certificates of achievement were presented to four county agricultural leaders.

PROJECT CHAIRMAN

The certificates were presented by Pen Worden, project chairman of the Georgia C. of C. to County Agent H. B. Scoggins, soil conservationist Henry Dyer and rural leaders Keely Greer and John Cash, who led Whitfield in the state-wide contest sponsored by the Georgia Chamber.

In awarding the certificates, Worden pointed out that during 1953, Whitfield led all counties entering the contest in a more progressive county-wide agricultural program.

Among the winning accomplishments were: additional acres of pasture, higher percentage income from livestock, more income from poultry and crops and greater crop yields with the use of larger amounts of fertilizer.

Other points stressed in Whitfield during the past year included soil conservation plans on farms, better forestry practices and a more progressive record of rural community improvement.

FOUR SIGNS

Following presentation of certificates to contest committeemen, Worden also presented the county four large signs which will be erected on four main highways leading into the county.

Yes, Dry Skin Actually Stopped

Really stopped by just one Lanolin Plus penetrating "Home Facial"—and recurrence of dry skin prevented by regular application.

Read below how to give yourself this new "Home Facial" that does such wonders for your skin.

The horrible thing about dry skin is the cruel fact that it can cause premature crow's feet, and tiny lines, thereby making you look older than you are. But now, thanks to Lanolin Plus LIQUID and this "Home Facial" method of application, you can do something for your skin at once. FIRST, apply a hot, wet washcloth to your face and neck to open the pores. SECOND, after warming your bottle of Lanolin Plus LIQUID under the hot water faucet, massage a small amount of this golden liquid into your skin, where it will leave a new supply of softening cholesterol and esters. Do this tonight and find dryness gone in the morning. Lanolin Plus LIQUID is $1 plus tax at all cosmetics counters.

Delay 4,200 Polio Tests In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6 (AP)—Polio vaccine tests for 4,200 East Baton Rouge parish school children were canceled today pending "clarification of the status of the serum."

Health officials expressed fear that the vaccination program here may have been impaired.

Dr. David Brown, parish health officer, announced the postponement after conferring with officials of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and doctors on radio commentator Walter Winchell's remark Sunday that the vaccine may be "a killer instead of a cure."

"I definitely think it has endangered our chances of getting good response from the parents," said Dr. Brown.

"Mothers and fathers are scared now," he added, "and I think many will remain suspicious. If the serum turns out all right, we will proceed, but on a much smaller scale."

Authorities said in New York last night that all new polio vaccine goes through nine tests in three different laboratories and is absolutely safe, before it is released for tests on children.

Did Duke U. Veto Honor For Nixon?

DURHAM, N. C., April 6 (AP)—Duke University declined to confirm or deny published reports today that faculty members voted 61-42 against awarding an honorary degree to Vice President Nixon, a graduate of Duke law school.

The reports gave no reason for the alleged faculty action.

Nixon was invited to be Duke's commencement speaker this June but declined on the grounds he did not want to leave Washington while the Senate was in session.

REJECTS BID

There were reports he turned down the invitation after learning that Duke faculty members voted against granting him an honorary degree.

A "high ranking Duke University spokesman" was quoted today by the Durham Morning Herald, however, as saying Nixon still expressed willingness to make the commencement address after being informed of the vote but later declined due to the pressure of legislative work.

DUKE PREXY

The spokesman confirmed the reports of the faculty vote, the Herald said.

Postal Chief Raps Wage Boost Pleas

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield today denounced pay increase demands of postal employee organizations as "nothing less than an all-out raid on the United States Treasury."

He termed them "exorbitant demands" supported by "outright misrepresentations."

Summerfield went before the House Post Office Committee to defend his proposal for reclassifying and consolidating Post Office jobs on an "equal pay for equal work" basis. The plan would mean an annual payroll increase of $80 million a year.

Organized postal employee groups charge the Summerfield proposal means wholesale downgrading of jobs.

Summerfield said his pay proposal was a job evaluation system under which employees are paid on the basis of duties and responsibilities rather than job titles.

White Quoted as Predicting Collapse of Free Enterprise

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—An acquaintance of the late Harry Dexter White said today the former assistant secretary of the Treasury predicted in 1945 that this country's private enterprise system could not last more than 5 or 10 years.

Tierney, Aly 2 Hours Late

HOLLYWOOD, April 6 (AP)—Actress Gene Tierney and Aly Khan drove leisurely up the coast highway today from Rosarito Beach, Mexico, so Miss Tierney could keep an appointment with a bow and arrow.

Twentieth Century-Fox studio had ordered Miss Tierney home from a romantic idyll in Mexico with her prince. She must use a large bow and arrow for her role in "The Egyptian."

"I knew I was due for my archery lesson at 2 p.m.," she told newsmen. "Aly and I stopped at the Farmer's Market for lunch."

They were more than two hours late arriving at the studio. Aly, who drove up to her dressing room with her, ducked out when he heard a room full of reporters was waiting.

"He's had it, as far as publicity goes," explained Miss Tierney.

She said the prince was allowed to enter the United States under a gentlemen's agreement with lawyers for Rita Hayworth, the prince's ex-wife. Under the legal truce there are to be no process servers to bother Aly Khan during his visits in Hollywood, Miss Tierney said.

She said the plans for a wedding are unchanged from an announcement in Mexico when she said she would marry Aly within six months, probably in France.

The actress and Aly later left the studio without as much as one pull on the bow.

Jonathan Mitchell of Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., a free-lance writer, said White based his opinion on what he called government-dominated trade in other nations.

Mitchell testified before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee in its probe into Communist infiltration into government.

He said he arranged to meet White at the luncheon to find out more about the man, after some of his colleagues reported a belief that White was "dominating" the secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, and making the decisions.

White expressed his economic views, Mitchell said, during a discussion of the book "Faith, Reason and Civilization," published a year earlier by British economist Harold Laski.

Mitchell said his own criticism of the book made White "extremely angry—what you would call a towering rage." Mitchell described the book as "a eulogy of communism," and said it expressed the view that "happily the Russians had worked out a new faith which would replace capitalism and Christianity."

Atty. Gen. Brownell charged in a speech last Nov. 6 that President Truman promoted White although FBI reports linked him with Russian espionage. White denied, shortly before his death in 1948, that he was a Communist.

Pay Raise for Teachers Labeled a Must by Hand

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Gubernatorial candidate Fred Hand Tuesday night declared that Georgia must raise teachers' salaries.

"Some way or other, I don't know how, we have got to pay the teachers better if we are to keep people in the teaching profession," wick, addressing the Elberton the House speaker told the Mari- Rotary Club, said there are three etta American Legion.

Hand, who heads the state School Building Authority, also said that as soon as the present school build- ing program is completely under way, a new one will have to be started.

"New children are entering schools faster than we can provide buildings and teachers," Hand said. "For instance, enough new chil- dren enter school in DeKalb Coun- ty every Monday morning to fill three classes."

"On top of that, the building pro- gram is geared to the average daily attendance of the preceding year. This puts the building pro- gram a year behind the attend- ance."

Hand said the School Building Authority has a thousand projects under construction or under contract. This will care for 77 per cent of Georgia's children. Another bond issue will be sold in six months to care for the other 33 per cent, he said.

Rep. Ben Smith of Cobb County, in presenting the candidate to the Legionnaires, said Hand has done more as chairman of the School Building Authority to preserve segregation in schools than any- one else. He did it without prej- udice or fanfare, Smith added.

LAWRENCEVILLE, April 6—While her 4-year-old son jumped in glee and shouted "Mama can walk again," a young Lawrence- ville woman took her first steps Tuesday since coming out of a four-month coma.

Mrs. Reba Jane Wright suf- fered critical head injuries on Dec. 12 and her husband of one week, Pvt. Odell Wright of Cartersville, was killed in a two- car collision near Athens.

She remained in a coma until Friday night when her first words dramatically broke the silence of her room here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ault Brooks.

"I feel good," she said in a faint, quivering voice. "The Lord has been so good to me. . . . He let me live for Bill."

Bill is her son by a previous marriage. She and her first hus- band separated when Bill was four months old.

Mrs. Wright's parents and the boy were at her bedside when she awoke from the long sleep.

"We had watched her closely ever since the wreck," Mrs. Brooks said, "but she never moved. Then all of a sudden Fri- day night she reached for a cloth and wiped her mouth."

"It thrilled us to death. I could see she was trying to say some- thing. Then she spoke her first words."

America's lowest priced low-friction SIX!

FORD'S NEW I-BLOCK SIX IS THE MOST MODERN SIX IN THE INDUSTRY::: THE ONLY LOW-FRICTION SIX IN ITS FIELD!

Why are more and more folks who like sixes swinging to Ford's 115-h.p. I-block Six? Because they're getting the most modern six in the industry . . . and for less money than practically any other six in America. Ford's short-stroke, low-friction design means less gas waste, less wear and longer engine life. The extra-deep, "I-shaped" block means a more rigid, quieter engine. Free-turning overhead valves keep compression high. And the new high-turbulence combustion chambers, teamed with Ford's exclusive Automatic Power Pilot, bring you even more "GO" per gallon.

ONLY FORD OFFERS BOTH A V-8 AND SIX IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD!

Ford is still the only low-priced car to bring you V-8 power. And this year, Ford's Y-block V-8, with its new deep-block, low-friction design, is the most modern "eight" in the industry. Both new Ford engines are available with Fordomatic,* Overdrive* or Conventional Drive—the finest choice of drives in the low-price field.

*at extra cost

HERE'S WHAT FORD'S LOW-FRICTION DESIGN MEANS TO YOU

LONGER ENGINE LIFE. Both new Ford engines are of short-stroke design. This means pistons travel less distance. Naturally, there is less friction and less wear. In both engines overhead valves have a free-turning feature which allows them to rotate to cut down wear.

MORE POWER. Because there is less friction to overcome in moving pistons up and down, there is more energy available to move the car. And because combustion chambers are wedge-shaped, fuel burns more completely . . . for even more power and less gas waste.

MORE "GO" PER GALLON. In addition to this gas-saving, low-friction design, Ford engines bring you the Automatic Power Pilot which squeezes the last ounce of power out of every drop of gas. You won't find any of the modern advances on this page in any other low-priced car.

Worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!

Disabled Vet Held After Gun Attack

Charge Greene Land Dispute

GREENSBORO, April 6.—Redford Malcolm, 56-year-old disabled veteran of World War I, Tuesday was arrested on a warrant charging assault with intent to murder a neighbor in Greensboro, 10 miles from Greensboro, police said.

Greene County Sheriff, L. L. Wyatt said the wounded man, Emory Copelan, 30, farmer and dairyman, was listed in critical condition at University Hospital in Augusta with a bullet wound in the chest following a dispute Monday over land boundaries.

36-HOUR HUNT

The arrest of Malcolm climaxed an intensive 36-hour hunt by Greene County authorities, the State Patrol and Atlanta police.

Malcolm was taken into custody Tuesday afternoon as he left a bus near Madison. He was placed in jail at Athens, Wyatt said.

After Monday's dispute the sheriff said Malcolm fled in a one and one-half ton truck, which later was found abandoned on Columbia circle in Atlanta.

BUS TRIP REPORTED

Officers obtained information that Malcolm left Atlanta on a bus, the sheriff said. They traced his movements on several bus routes before spotting him as he alighted from the bus near Madison.

Wyatt said Malcolm would be returned to Greensboro to face charges.

Malcolm was classified as totally disabled from injuries received in the First World War, he said.

Women Voters Elect Mrs. Eguen For 2nd Year

Mrs. Murdock Eguen has been elected to her second successive term as president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, it was announced Tuesday.

Other officers elected for the coming year were Mrs. Dan Byrd Jr., executive vice president; Mrs. Robert Granitz, Mrs. Alan Ritter and Mrs. William B. Stone, vice presidents; Mrs. Edwin J. Kelley, secretary, and Mrs. Edwin A. Pierce, treasurer.

These new officers also comprise the executive committee of the league's board of directors. The league also elected Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Granitz as delegates to the national convention in Denver, April 26-30.

Grady To Feature Student's Overture

An overture written by a 15-year-old 10th-grade student at Henry Grady High School will be played at the school's annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the school gymnasium.

Jerry Bramblett, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bramblett of 125 Hill St., Smyrna, composed the overture, "Theus and Ariadne." Jerry commutes from Smyrna so that he can play in the Grady High band. He plays the bass violin in the school orchestra and the flute in the band. He also is an accomplished pianist.

Besides Jerry's overture, the concert will feature Leroy Anderson's "Typewriter Song."

Mister, you may look like
but...

How's the view from the rear? Wrinkles are o.k. for elephants, but not for the human male. Yet that's the way your suit or slacks often look in hot, sticky, summer weather.

What a man needs is Milliken's Visa, the tropical fabric that "stands up" where you sit down. Visa is blended of enough Dacron (55%) to retard wrinkles and hold its trouser crease, even in the rain...enough luxurious worsted (45%) to absorb moisture and provide summer weather comfort. What's more, Visa keeps you cooler than any tropical, because it's 20% lighter and twice as porous.

To enjoy all the extra benefits of this blend, insist on Visa, the only Dacron-Worsted that's been worn and proven over the past 3 summers. You'll cut pressing bills... travel light... and look right all the time, rear as well as front!

Where to find Milliken's VISA

Your favorite store probably has Visa in the suits and slacks of a leading clothing manufacturer. It can be identified by the Visa label or the label, "A Milliken fabric, 55% Dacron—45% Worsted."

Visa may also be found under private store brands. So to be sure you are getting all the benefits of this remarkable new fabric, ask the salesman, "Is this garment made of Milliken's Visa?" And to double check...

DRIVERS IGNORE ARROWS AND WARNINGS, CONTINUE TO CREATE HAZARDOUS CONDITION
Brookwood Entrance To Expressway Going South Still Creates Traffic Problem Despite Efforts of State Highway Department

Freeway Drivers Ignore Brookwood Danger Spot

By BILL DIEHL

State Highway Department officials Tuesday took steps to correct a traffic hazard on the northeast leg of the Expressway but motorists ignored warning signs and continued to create a serious bottleneck.

The "danger spot" is the intersection of the Brookwood Station ramp from Peachtree street into the Expressway.

Traffic engineers have had the intersection under observation since the Piedmont avenue extension of the northeast leg was opened several weeks ago. Motorists entering the Expressway from Peachtree street, meanwhile, complained to The Constitution that when automobiles came abreast down the Expressway from Piedmont, entrance into the roadway was "dangerous and virtually impossible."

To Memorialize Cancer Victims

The 1954 Fulton County fund-raising campaign against cancer will be conducted in memory of the 612 persons who died of the disease in the county last year, Roy Collier Jr., general chairman, said yesterday.

Collier said William Daniel and Ward Wight Jr. will serve as co-chairmen of the special gifts division of the campaign. He said about 100 volunteers are working in this division and will make their first reports at a "kick-off" breakfast at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday at the Biltmore Hotel.

SIGNS PLACED
Signs and markers were placed at the intersection instructing traffic from Piedmont along the Expressway to "keep to left" and warning Brookwood ramp traffic to "yield right of way."

Two signs have been placed about 200 yards ahead of the ramp, warning traffic to keep left and yellow arrows have been painted in the right lane of the Expressway directing traffic to the left.

Traffic engineers also have tested a system limiting Brookwood traffic to one lane as it enters the Expressway. This plan may also be put into effect if the present warning markers are not successful.

SIGN WARNS MOTORISTS TO KEEP LEFT
Driver Ignores Warning, Keeps Right

MUST OBEY

According to state traffic officials, the traffic problem here will be virtually solved if oncoming cars will keep left and incoming vehicles will keep right.

Tuesday afternoon, however, dozens of motorists continued to ignore the "keep left" warnings, making it hazardous to enter the Expressway at Peachtree street.

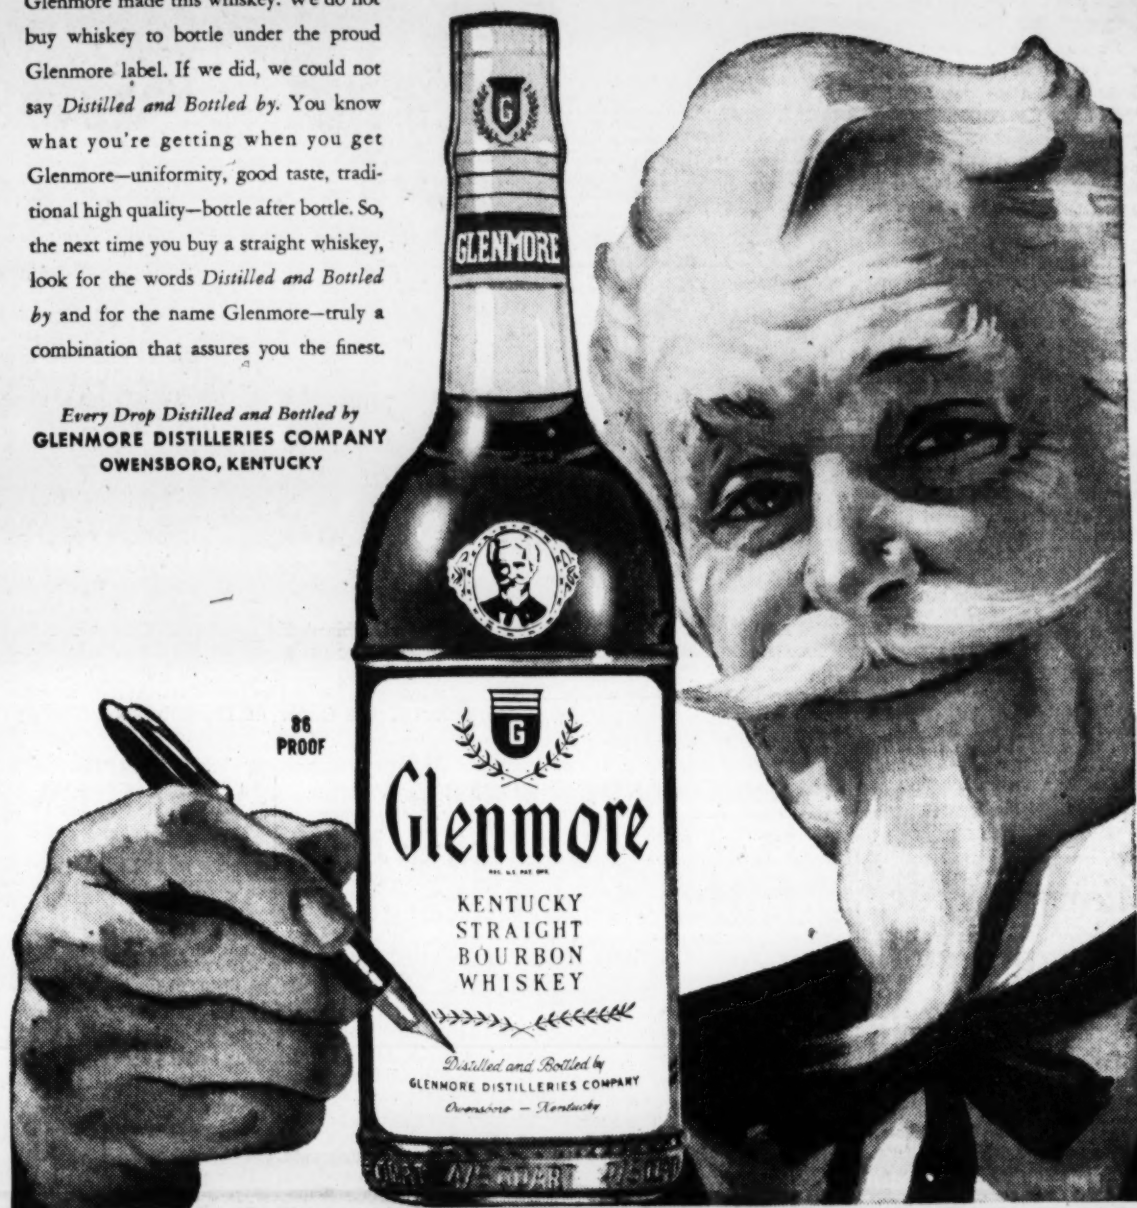

On several occasions near-mishaps were noted when cars bore down on the intersection in the wrong lanes.

Sale of Fernbank Site For School Is Approved

DeKalb To Buy 13-Acre Tract at Cost of $22,500

Trustees of Fernbank Forest have agreed to sell a 13-acre tract of the recreation area to the DeKalb County Board of Education as a future elementary school building site, Lee Burge, chairman of the board of trustees, said Tuesday.

The tract will be sold for $22,500, Burge said. About 50 acres of virgin woodland will remain in the non-profit recreation area, he added.

School Superintendent Jim Cherry confirmed the sale agreement between the Board of Education and the Fernbank trustees. Consummation of the sale awaits preparation of deeds, he said.

The sale agreement specifies that the tract, an open field at the rear of the forest area, will be used for a school site within five years or will be resold to the Fernbank trustees at the original purchase price.

Burge said the sale income will be placed in dividend-bearing investments and will be held for future capital developments in the recreation area.

The Fernbank trustee chairman said the school officials asked for the sale after a survey showed the need for a school in the immediate area of Fernbank.

Only the Fernbank field offered sufficient acreage for a school site, Burge said, and the trustees "reluctantly" agreed to the sale.

The forest recreation area is the property of Fernbank Forest, Inc., and is considered one of the best natural recreation areas within a metropolitan area in the U.S.

School officials said the Fernbank school will be one of three in Druid Hills that will take a pupil load from Druid Hills School. The Druid Hills plant will eventually be used as a high school only.

The first of the three proposed elementary schools, Briarvista, is already under construction. The Fernbank school and a third will be built later.

Students Visit 50,000 Homes In Vote Drive

High school students throughout Metropolitan Atlanta rang some 50,000 doorbells Tuesday in an all-out campaign to get citizens to register to vote before the May 1 deadline.

The students were armed with brochures prepared by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the drive, telling prospective voters, where, when and how to register as well as other information.

In North Fulton area alone, 154 seniors from North Fulton High School spread the slogan "Your Vote Won't Register If You Don't" to more than 4,000 homes.

Leading the North Fulton delegation was Hal Blackmarr, senior class president.

Jaycee chambers sponsoring the "March for Democracy" are the Atlanta, South Fulton and DeKalb chambers.

Gaming Stamp Hearing Waived

Terry Nesmith, 55, alias R. M. Scott, waived a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Frank M. Holden Tuesday on charges of failing to register as a gambler on to purchase an occupational tax stamp.

Nesmith was picked up in Decatur at the request of officials in Nashville, Tenn., where he is charged with income tax evasion. Bond of $2,500 was set in each case.

$8,500 CD Rescue Truck Readied For Early Services in DeKalb

A 12,000-pound $8,500 Civil Defense Rescue Service truck, first of its type in Georgia, has been delivered to the DeKalb County fire department and will be put into service within two weeks.

The truck, which would carry a crew of eight trained rescue workers to dig out persons trapped in damaged buildings, is the heaviest and most completely equipped rescue vehicle now approved by federal CD engineers, Elliott Johnson, CD director for Metropolitan Atlanta, said.

ALL RESCUE WORK

The vehicle was purchased jointly by the metropolitan CD and DeKalb County. Priority is given for its use by CD, which can call it into service anywhere in the metropolitan area.

The 140-HP truck, to be stationed at DeKalb's Avondale fire station, will be available for all rescue work in the county.

DeKalb Fire Chief Mike Lynch and Assistant Chief D. P. Martin said instructors from the Atlanta fire department will begin training the rescue crew next week. Four men will be on duty with the truck at all times, Lynch said.

The vehicle, which carries 344 separate pieces of rescue and first aid equipment, has everything from wire cutters and hack saws to a jack that can lift up to 15 tons.

OXYGEN MASKS

Two oxygen-equipped rescue masks would allow workers to operate in underground situations where no oxygen is present. Regular gas masks are also carried.

A telephone powered by sound alone would enable rescuers to communicate with persons trapped underground.

A front-mounted winch on the truck could exert a 15,000-pound pull on debris that covered victims. Canvas and wire litters, blankets and first aid equipment are stored inside the truck and in compartments on its sides. The vehicle could serve as an ambulance for at least four litter cases.

TWO-WAY RADIO

Lynch said the blue and white truck will be equipped with a two-way radio and additional equipment such as resuscitators for water victims.

The vehicle, which will be equipped with a siren and warning lights,

Mike Greenblatt's 'Ramblin' Wreck,' 2 Other Songs Copyrighted by Tech

Georgia Tech's famous "fight song" about the "Ramblin' Wreck," like two of the Atlanta institution's other popular tunes, has been copyrighted by the school.

Controller Jamie R. Anthony Tuesday said exclusive rights and privileges for commercial use of "Ramblin' Wreck" are now registered in the school's name. Mike Greenblatt, Tech alumnus, gave the school his copyright for his arrangement of the tune last year.

The other songs are the "Yellow Jacket March" and the Tech "Alma Mater."

Greenblatt, Atlanta paper dealer, transcribed the "Ramblin' Wreck" 46 years ago to a tune popular in Southern college circles.

Hapeville's Council Hits P.O. Merger

Hapeville City Council has joined the councils of East Point and College Park in passing resolutions opposing the study toward combining small municipal post offices with the Atlanta Post Office.

In a special meeting recently council authorized Rex T. Reeves, city attorney, to draw up the resolution, and have copies of it sent to members of Georgia's congressional delegation.

Council also specified copies of the resolution be sent to the U.S. postmaster general, the national head of the Republican party, head of the Republican Party in Fulton County, to Atlanta's superintendent of mails, and to presidents of all South Fulton civic organizations.

SAVINGS

Meanwhile, city government representatives of all three of the Tri-Cities have rejected arguments on the consolidations put forth by George C. Harris, assistant inspector in charge of the Atlanta Postal Division, who is conducting the post office merger study.

Speaking before the East Point Chamber of Commerce, Harris said the study thus far had revealed a savings of $175,000 to $200,000 per year would result, in addition to better distribution of mail.

Hapeville Mayor Eugene Dixon, who attended the meeting along with College Park mayor Mal T. Anderson, members of the East Point Council, and representatives of civic groups, said confusion of mail already has resulted from Blair Village mail — which is in Atlanta — being served through the Hapeville Post Office.

REDUCE TITLES?

Harris said costs would be cut by reducing present postmasters to the title of superintendent of mails, and thereby slashing their salaries. Present post offices would be maintained as they are, he said, but as Atlanta Post Office branches.

The savings, Harris explained, would result from eliminating postmasters from 10 Fulton towns, and also by halting the use of temporary workers at the small offices.

In connection with the survey, East Point Mayor Al Roberts said study of the East Point Post Office is now underway, and Mayor Anderson said College Park's Post Office already has been investigated.

Mother Accused Of Neglecting 7

Seven children ranging in age from three to eight Tuesday night were placed in the Atlanta Child's Home while police investigated charges of neglect on the part of the mother.

Policewoman Ruby Barrett said the group consisted of six girls and one boy and included a set of twin girls.

Mrs. Barrett said the children would be held until police could investigate complaints that they often were left at home alone over long periods of time.

Nobody Can Harm America But Americans—Educator

Nobody can injure America but Americans themselves, if they fail to guard their country's ideals by not exercising "eternal vigilance," an Irish-born philosopher told the Atlanta Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Ian Stuart, director of public relations for the Southern States Industrial Council, listed as the things that have made America great: faith in God, freedom to work, rugged individualism, unlimited opportunity, free enterprise and a belief in the dignity of man.

Stuart, who now lives in Birmingham, Ala., became a United States citizen in 1951. A native of Dublin, Ireland, he has held executive educational posts in Ireland, England and the United States.

"The greatest of all man's freedoms," he said, "is his freedom to work. Prize this above everything, because unless a man is free to work as hard and late as he likes he is deprived of the opportunity of rising to the dignity of man."

McCarthy Charges U.S. Delayed Hydrogen Research 1 1/2 Years

Carthy said was "praising Murrow."

"Now ordinarily," McCarthy said, "I would not take time out from the important work at hand to answer Murrow. However, in this case, I feel justified in doing so because Murrow is a symbol, a leader, and the clearest of the jackal pack, which is always found at the throat of anyone who dares to expose Communists and traitors."

RED CAUSES

McCarthy charged Murrow 20 years ago was engaged in propaganda for Communist causes. McCarthy named the Institute for International Education. McCarthy said Murrow was an acting director and was chosen to act as a representative by a Soviet agency "to do a job which would normally be done by the Russian secret police."

McCarthy said that on March 9, the date of Murrow's program attacking him, the commentator "followed implicitly the Communist line as laid down in the last six months."

The senator said that the Soviet had sent trained propagandists and spies to foreign countries.

"In other countries they, of course, had to find clever men like Edward R. Murrow, who would sponsor invitations to students and teachers to attend indoctrination schools in Moscow exactly as Murrow has done."

Murrow answered that McCarthy's "reckless and unfounded attempt to impugn my loyalty is just one more example of his typical tactic of attempting to tie up to communism anyone who disagrees with him."

USES NATION

"Sen. McCarthy plays upon this nation's determination to protect itself against communism as a means of creating distrust of anyone who criticizes him no matter how devoted to our American institutions the critic may be," Murrow added.

Of McCarthy's charge he did a job in the Institute for International Education "that would normally be done by Soviet secret police," Murrow said, "That is false."

He said he is proud of his association with the Institute and said others associated with it are Secretary of State Dulles and Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother.

Murrow said it is true as Mc-

Carthy said that the late Professor Harold Laski, an officer of the British Labor (Socialist) Party, dedicated a book to him in 1943. Laski was a Socialist, Murrow said. Murrow said he himself was not a Socialist.

The broadcaster admitted also, as McCarthy said, that Owen Lattimore praised Murrow in his book, "Ordeal by Slander." McCarthy has charged Lattimore with being a Soviet agent.

Murrow said he and Lattimore never have met and the reference to him in the book was along with the names of other prominent radio and newspaper reporters.

OUT AS COUNSEL

counsel could be employed—perhaps tomorrow when at least one lawyer has agreed to talk to the full subcommittee—and that public, televised hearings still might start during the week of April 12.

When Sears appeared before the subcommittee meeting in Murrow's office at 9:30 a.m., there was little doubt the session would end in one of two ways—by his resignation or dismissal.

He had assured senators in private and news correspondents in public last week that he had never, privately or publicly, taken any position on Sen. McCarthy or "McCarthyism." In the meantime, Boston newspaper files had yielded a collection of clippings dating from 1951 and including a speech as recently as Jan. 21, 1954, in which Sears placed himself squarely on the side of the Wisconsin Republican.

WOULD RESIGN

While Sears said in his public statement that he had decided to withdraw from the assignment even before the committee met this morning, senators said they did not draw this conclusion from the early moments of their session with him.

The Boston lawyer sought this morning to explain away last week's denials by saying that he had meant only to assert that he had expressed no public opinion about the current controversy between the Army and McCarthy. The controversy grew out of an Army report that the senator and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, had pressured and threatened the Army in an effort to get special treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, an unpaid subcommittee consultant before he was drafted.

HIDES PRAISE

When Sears turned in his resignation, Mundt said that it was accepted unanimously, 6 to 0, on motion of Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.), seconded by Sen. Symington (D-Miss.). He noted that these two men originally made and seconded the motion to hire Sears.

Senators privately said they were annoyed with Sears not only because he had withheld from them his public record of praise for McCarthy, but also because they were not aware when he was hired that he had sought to get the job.

Sears, in his statement, said: "Although I have referred in the past to the work Sen. McCarthy had been doing, and in favorable terms, I am completely satisfied in my own mind that I am thoroughly competent to conduct the pending inquiry objectively, impartially and in fairness to all. It is not in my blood to do otherwise. However, that is not the test."

The investigation must go forward not only with the full confidence of those involved, but, perhaps more important, with the absolute confidence of the people. At no time should there be an opportunity for anyone to feel that all the facts are not brought forward, government was well enough informed about the tests and their timing to send planes in at the proper time.

It was also the first revelation that the United States had permitted Britain to send such planes to gather information at the tightly guarded, highly secret test sites.

Churchill's statement made it obvious that the United States was keeping Britain considerably more informed on its H-tests than knowledge of the tests.

The two new disclosures on nuclear matters came as the upsurge over Churchill's publication of the wartime secret pact raged furiously throughout this island.

As questions about A-bombs and H-bombs flew in Commons, Churchill told the House he would be "delighted" to welcome President Eisenhower here for talks on the problem.

(In Washington, the White House said such a trip was not under consideration.)

The Prime Minister said that although British planes made experimental flights, the United States had not permitted British technicians to be present at the explosions.

He said the facilities granted were in return for similar courtesies extended by Britain to the United States during her own A-bomb tests off Australia.

America's H-bomb tests have touched off a chain reaction in British politics. Some members of Churchill's own Conservative party said privately that the 79-year-old Prime Minister now is embroiled in his hottest political fight since World War II.

Churchill shored up his position somewhat with his statements in the House today. But the stubborn old warrior still is in trouble.

Several pro-Conservative newspapers suggested he made a political miscalculation during yesterday's H-bomb debate by seeking to blame opposition leader Clement Attlee for the fact that Britain now presumably has no voice in American nuclear secrets or policies.

Churchill did this by blaming Attlee for letting the United States cancel the secret pact. Attlee retorted that the U.S. Senate passed the McMahon Act barring exchange of atomic information with its allies.

States of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. He said that no amount of U.S. intervention would win if the native forces lacked a will to fight.

Kennedy asserted that Dulles has indicated a willingness to go to war.

The debate was a follow-up of American efforts to swing the full moral force of the free world behind efforts to avert a major conflict in Asia. Part of this effort would be an international warning that Chinese Red aggression in Indochina could bring massive retaliation against the China mainland.

ASKS PLANS

Jackson told the Senate Eisenhower should come before Congress and spell out the administration's plans on Indochina so the Senate and House can act to give him "a strong hand to back up our position in southeast Asia."

Sen. Kennedy, also in a Senate speech, asserted that when Dulles called for "united action" to prevent Indochina's fall to the Reds, he indicated American willingness to go to war.

Kennedy said Dulles indicated the United States would take the "ultimate step" to prevent a Communist victory.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) asked: "And what is the ultimate step?" Kennedy replied: "War." Knowland declared U.S. allies should "stand up and be counted" as to their intentions of joining in a southeast Asia collective security plan.

Knowland said the United States has given "billions" to build up the anti-Communist strength of allied nations.

ASKS FREEDOM

He added: "But we cannot have an effective system of collective security if some of the countries receiving our help, now when the chips are down, stand on the sidelines while we assume the major burden as we did in Korea."

The Californian also declared France should grant independence to Indochina to bolster the Vietnamese struggle against the Reds, which he called a "challenge" the free nations "cannot ignore."

In Paris, the French government called an emergency cabinet meeting to consider the U.S. proposal for "united action" to head off war in Asia.

Australian diplomatic sources said no allied nation has yet accepted the U.S. plan for a joint warning to the Chinese Reds that their intervention in Indochina could bring crushing retaliation.

Lindy on Board To Pick Site for AF Academy

Gens. Harmon and Spaatz
Named to 5-Man Panel

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—A five-man board including Charles A. Lindbergh began today the politically ticklish task of choosing a site for the new Air Force Academy.

Working with the famed trans-Atlantic flier will be two other civilians, President Virgil M. Har-mer of the University of Iowa and Merrill C. Meigs, Chicago businessman; and two Air Force generals, Gen. Carl A. Spaatz and Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon. No chairman was designated.

The 126 million dollar academy, a "West Point of the air," was authorized in legislation signed into law by President Eisenhower last Thursday. Planned eventually to take care of nearly 2,500 student officers, it is to open July 1, 1955 with an initial class of 500, probably in temporary quarters.

POLITICAL PLUM

The law which provides for the academy also directed formation of the five-man board to help Harold M. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, pick a site. If the board's recommendation is unanimous, Talbott is bound by its findings. If not, Talbott will make the final selection from the board's three top choices.

Numerous Congress members already have sought to land the academy for their respective states or districts. They consider it a political plum because of both the size and the permanence of the proposed installation.

No time limit was fixed for the board's work as it met today, but it was directed to make its report "as soon as practicable." A spokesman said it will make its rules as it goes along.

EARLIER POSSIBILITIES

Talbott told Congress during consideration of the new legislation that the board would be guided, but not bound, by the work of earlier selection boards. One board on which Spaatz served earlier had winnowed through a list of more than 300 sites suggested for the academy, and picked seven possibilities.

These were Randolph Field, Tex.; the Dallas-Ft. Worth, Tex., area; the Charlotte, N.C., area; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Camp Beale, Marysville, Calif.; Grayson County, Tex., and the Madison, Ind., area.

Son, George (D-Ga.) has said any of 20 sections in his state would provide an excellent location and numerous other Congress members have suggested specific or general areas.

Jefferson-Jackson Dining Not a Violation Of Security Rules, Congress Is Assured

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The Department of Agriculture has solemnly assured Congress that attendance at a Democratic Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner does not constitute a security violation.

The assurance was given by Ralph S. Roberts, administrative assistant to Secretary Benson, before the House Appropriations Committee in hearings recently. A record of the proceedings was made public today.

The matter was brought up by Rep. Whitten (D-Miss.), who also wondered if a Communist found in the Agriculture Department might have been "responsible" for the administration's flexible farm price support program.

Roberts told the committee that 74 Agriculture Department employees have been separated from government services for security reasons. One of them was a Communist, he testified.

"Some of the reports I get," Whitten remarked, "are to the effect that some folks may have resigned because the department investigated whether they went to the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, rather than for these other reasons."

Roberts said the fired Communist was not in a sensitive position. About that Communist, Whitten said:

"I had wondered who it was that had gotten up the figures to support the flexible support price program, and the attacks on the farm program..."

The flexible support program was conceived by the Eisenhower administration. Continuing his ribbing, Whitten said:

"Now that I have learned that they have found this Communist down there, I wonder if he had

NATO Slap May Force Juin Out

Hits His Criticism Of EDC Policy

PARIS, April 6 (AP)—The North Atlantic Council handed French Marshal Alphonse Juin a rebuke today which a NATO spokesman described as strong enough to provoke him to resign his Allied command.

The council told the Marshal, commander of NATO forces in Central Europe, it regrets deeply his repeated criticisms of the European Defense Treaty. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization supports EDC without reservations.

FRENCH POST

To make Juin's resignation easier, the council specified there is no plan to replace him with any but another French general officer.

Jun has declared publicly that he will not step out unless he receives iron-clad assurances that his successor will be a French officer with precisely the same powers he holds.

The council's reprimand—unprecedented because NATO never before has found one of its own military officers in disagreement with NATO policy—was handed to France's No. 1 soldier by Lt. Gen. Cortlandt V. R. Schuyler. He is chief of staff to the supreme Allied commander, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther. Gruenther returned from a trip to London today too late to deliver it himself.

VOTE REBUKE

The scolding was contained in a council resolution which was voted yesterday, saying the council "expresses its profound regret at the public statements made by the commander-in-chief Central Europe on 27th March, 1954, and subsequently reiterated."

The statements by the marshal which the council found objectionable were that the EDC treaty is unworkable and unfavorable to France, therefore a substitute project for Western Europe's defense must be found.

Already Juin has been dismissed from his French military posts by Premier Joseph Laniel because he failed to submit his speeches for approval and then failed to appear when summoned by Laniel to explain.

Co-ed Club Train To Stalk Down Ministers as Husbands Assist Them

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 6 (AP)—Oklahoma City University coeds who want to become wives of preachers have formed a campus club to foster their common interests.

"Why not be frank?" the girls ask. "If you want to marry a preacher, you should train for it, just as in other walks of life."

Name of the organization is the Co-Pilots Club, called that because a campus organization of ministerial students is known as the Sky Pilots Club.

Atlantans To Key Prison Meetings

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Atlantans and Georgians will predominate the annual convention programs of the Southern States Prison Assn. and Southern States Probation and Parole Assn. here Sunday through Wednesday.

They will speak and preside during the two conventions at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel. Most important, however, they will see that the visitors enjoy their stay in Atlanta and learn something of our penal reform program. Georgia is proud to show off her prison system.

The Mills of Fulton County have leading roles in the conventions. Warden Carl Mills is chairman of the local convention committee. He will preside over one session of the prison association convention, and will participate in a discussion of the Georgia program. Mrs. Mills, president of the international auxiliary of the warden's association, will join her husband on the entertainment committee.

Fulton County Commissioners R. L. Doyle, Archie Lindsey and Glover Hailey, along with Fulton Prison Chaplain Bill Allison also have key roles.

From the state prison setup, Warden R. P. Balkcom Jr. of Tattall State Prison, head of the national warden's association, is chairman of the program committee. He is a member of the local convention committee. Balkcom will preside over one session and will discuss the state prison reform program.

OTHERS ON PROGRAM

L. C. Burns of Savannah, chairman of the State Board of Corrections; director Robert Warren and assistant director J. B. Hatchett of the State Board of Corrections are others on the program.

Georgia's new commission on alcoholism will be under discussion, as wardens take a look at this problem. Paul Fraser, director of the Georgia commission, will discuss "Handling of Chronic Alcoholics" during the probation and parole conference. Charlie Pannell, chairman of the State Parole Board, will preside.

Gov. Talmadge will be the main speaker at the joint banquet of both associations.

BOOST FOR STATE

Other Georgians participating will include Federal Judge Frank Hooper, Fulton Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Woolfolk, Dr. Rives Chalmers of Atlanta, Dr. Raymond Payne of the University of Georgia, John Bouhan of Savannah, George Allen Maddox, Sims Manning, J. C. Larmore, J. D. Tattall, State Prison, head of the national warden's association, is chairman of the program committee. He is a member of the Battle of Atlanta Shell Is Exploded at Fort

A shell fired during the Battle of Atlanta in 1864 has just been detonated at Ft. McPherson where ordnance experts described its history as follows:

The unexploded shell was discovered recently in Oakland Cemetery, where Confederate dead of the battle are buried. It was loaded with black powder and lead pellets and had been fired by a Union gun.

It couldn't be taken apart because it was caked with rust and corrosion. Ordnance men set it off in a remote section of the fort. The blast was heard throughout the post.

First Workshop On Passover Set By Sisterhood

The first annual Passover Workshop, sponsored by the Beth Jacob Sisterhood, is scheduled at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Beth Jacob Synagogue.

Rabbi Emanuel Feidman will conduct a model seder, explaining the various customs and symbols associated with the seder and the Passover season. Members of the Sisterhood and the Brotherhood and students in the Hebrew School will take part in the program.

The workshop committee, headed by Mrs. Jeannette Perlinski, will give a program on Passover cookery.

Cook Accused of Drawing $9,120 Above His Salary

CARTERSVILLE, April 6—Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook drew $9,120 more from the taxpayers in 1953 than the salary fixed by the state constitution, Dan Duke, Atlanta attorney, charged here Tuesday.

In addition, Cook's wife drew $3,780 for part-time work in the State Law Department, Duke told the Cartersville Lions Club.

The lawyer said that Cook drew a total of $16,620 in salary and fees and allowances for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953. He said the salary is constitutionally fixed at $7,500.

"There is a flagrant waste, incompetency and nepotism in your state government," Duke said. "I select the attorney general as an example because the lack of respect for the public trust which he wields is more pronounced in the Law Department than in any other department of the state, and this disrespect has been displayed more unseemly and arrogantly by the chief law officer of the state."

Duke quoted the state Constitution as saying the constitutional officers' pay shall be fixed by the Legislature, "and none of these seven officials shall be allowed any fee, perquisite or compensation other than their salaries as prescribed by law, except their necessary expenses when absent from the seat of government on business of the state."

Duke said Cook's fees were hidden in the audits so that it is difficult to locate all the pay the attorney general receives.

He listed the following for the fiscal year 1953: Salary as attorney general, $7,500; as director of the bill drafting unit, $2,400; subsistence pay, cost-of-living, $2,400; fees as a member and legal advisor to 18 boards and bureaus of the state government, $4,320; grand total, $16,620.

Duke declared that the cost of operating the State Law Department, without impairing efficiency, could be reduced $100,000 per year.

Atty. Gen. Cook was out of Atlanta Tuesday attending a Midwestern regional meeting of the National Attorneys General Association and could not be reached for comment. Cook heads the national association.

Records in the state auditor's office showed that the attorney general, under the salary schedule as revised by the legislature last year, is currently drawing a total salary from all sources of $13,980. In addition, he receives a travel allowance of $2,400, from which, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. said, he must pay his traveling expenses. Mrs. Cook is listed as an employee at $3,780.

Duke charged that Cook "opened a Pandora's box" by breaking the spirit of separation of the Legislature and executive branches of the government by ruling that legislators could be employed by the executive branches.

South Georgia Telephone Co. Lists Aids

Consolidated Telephone Co. has announced an $86,000 improvement program for 1954 in answer to complaints of customers at Ahlira and other south Georgia communities.

Plans for improving service were outlined to the Georgia Public Service Commission in a letter from J. L. Kirk, company president.

GO TO GOVERNOR

Customers at Ahlira, Morven, Barney, Norman Park and neighboring communities took their complaints to Gov. Talmadge. They asked the governor to call for an investigation of the company. Talmadge directed the PSC to make a report and recommend a course of action.

Kirk, in Tuesday's letter, said the switchboard and central office in Ahlira are inadequate. But he said the company is negotiating for construction of a new building and plans a new switchboard.

OUTSIDE FACILITIES

Until another switchboard is installed, Kirk said, outside plant facilities "will be made adequate to serve anyone wanting a telephone in the Ahlira territory."

Several complaints reported applicants who had been on a waiting list for long periods.

The letter said plans have been made to install a larger automatic switchboard at Norman Park and to rebuild a trunk line and install a new switchboard at Morven.

COST LISTED

The Morven improvements would cost $7,800 and those at Norman Park $6,000.

PSC Chairman Matt McWhorter said the plan seems reasonable.

Scelba Offers EDC Bill, Faces Tussle With Reds

All-Out Fight To Block Army Plan

By ARNALDO CORTESI

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

ROME, April 6—Premier Mario Scelba presented a bill for ratification of the European Defense Community treaty to the Chamber of Deputies today.

The debate, and the vote that will follow, are expected to give rise inside Parliament, and perhaps also outside, to one of the toughest battles in Italian parliamentary history. The Communists and their left wing Socialist allies have already served notice that what they did last year in an effort to defeat the government's electoral bill will pale into insignificance in comparison with what they will do in the coming months to prevent ratification of the EDC.

REDS FIGHT

Last year the Communists and their allies took part in some of the worst fist-fights and the most glamorous incidents ever seen in an Italian Parliament. It is not difficult to foresee therefore that the EDC debate will not be brief or peaceful. The Communist-dominated Peace Patians, moreover, have been mobilized to arouse public opinion against the EDC. This makes it extremely probable that the battle inside Parliament will be accompanied by strife and possibly by strikes and riots outside.

The next few months are consequently expected to be crucial for Premier Scelba's government. It has a very slim majority in the Senate and the Chamber and the slightest wavering or uncertainty on the part of the three minor center parties, on whose votes it counts, would be fatal to it. It will need all its prestige and authority and all the help it can get if it is to steer the EDC bill through Parliament successfully.

EDC BILL

Premier Scelba did not ask the Chamber to adopt urgent procedure in considering the EDC bill. The Communists and other extreme left wing deputies had gathered in force to resist the government's request if it had been made. Since the government was content with normal procedure, presentation of the EDC bill gave rise to no incident or comment beyond a few ironical remarks from the Communists. Under normal procedure it will probably be close to the end of the year before the EDC can be ratified.

The bill was accompanied by a 61-page report in which the government explains the reasons why it thinks that Parliament should ratify the EDC.

The report described the EDC as an important step in the policy of European integration that Italy has consistently followed as a means of preventing wars. Six nations have decided to give European integration practical form by creating the coal and steel community and the defense community, the report continued, stating that Italy expects the EDC to smooth the way for the European political community.

Audrey Hepburn Reported Very Ill Due to Driving Loyalty to Career

NEW YORK, April 6 (INS)—Fragile Audrey Hepburn, under her grease-paint and gritting courage, is a seriously ill woman.

She is suffering, International News Service learned today, from anemia, a drastic loss of weight and severe exhaustion. The 24-year-old "wonder girl," who less than two weeks ago topped Hollywood and Broadway's top acting awards, has paid heavily for her honors.

She drives herself through her strenuous role in the Broadway hit "Ondine," but literally vanishes from sight at the final curtain into the protective guardianship of her mother and a physician, who has forced her to drop all other activities.

No one knows the address or phone number of the ailing Miss Hepburn or her titled European mother, Baroness Ella Van Heemstra. Even on their big night—the night Audrey shakily received her Hollywood "Oscar"—they withdrew alone, to drink warm champagne unsipped by the usual mo-

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Even Audrey's press agent and the manager of "Ondine" don't know where they live. When business demands, Audrey phones them.

Friends blame most of the delicate actress' physical troubles on her intense, driving approach to her career. She has been working constantly and conscientiously since she first came to Broadway, a 21-year-old unknown, less than three years ago.

Her sudden and surprising (to Audrey) sweep to both the "Oscar" and Broadway's coveted "Antoinette Perry Award" climaxed many weeks of study, rehearsals, out-of-town and in-town performances, publicity interviews and parties for "Ondine."

There are more personal complications. Audrey is said to be deeply emotionally involved with her current leading man, Mel Ferrer. And to Audrey, who two years ago broke an engagement to a British businessman for the sake of her career, such a romantic complication now probably causes intense worry.

Plane Maker Flew Away With Wife, Son of General, $2 Million Suit Says

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Milton W. Arnold filed a $1,000,000 damage suit in U.S. District Court today, charging that airplane manufacturer George M. Bunker flew away with his wife and 7-year-old son.

Arnold's complaint charges that Bunker, president of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co., used "lavish and extravagant entertainment" to lure the former Mrs. Arnold into "a clandestine relationship" and later marriage.

Arnold, a retired Air Force officer and vice president of the Air Transport Assn., sought $500,000 from Bunker for what was termed the loss of his wife's affection and $500,000 in the loss of his son. He said Mrs. Bunker and her new husband kept the youngster in violation of a custody agreement.

The Bunkers were married Feb. 21, four days after she received a Florida divorce from Arnold.

The complaint said an employee of Bunker's firm rented a cottage for Mrs. Arnold and her son at Indian Beach, Md., last summer. Later last year, it charged, Bunker arranged a trip to Florida for Mrs. Arnold in his private plane and joined her there.

Tells of Error of 1.5 Billion Years

sponsorship of the YMCA Religious same committee will sponsor an of The Constitution, at 11 a.m. THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Wednesday, April 7, 1954 • 15 Programs Committee at Tech. The address by Ralph McGill, editor Tuesday, April 13.

Studies of radioisotopes show the earth is about 3.3 billion years old—approximately the same age calculated by another scientific method after "a little error" was corrected, Dr. Edward McCrady, educator and scientist, said here Tuesday.

Dr. McCrady, vice chancellor of the University of the South, Seawance, Tenn., told Georgia Tech students some scientists had thought the earth was only 1.8 billion years old.

"But they have discovered a mistake," he laughingly noted. Dr. McCrady named two ways

By KATHERINE BARNWELL of figuring the age of the earth: 1. Since radioactive atoms change into other kinds of atoms (uranium into lead, for example) at an unalterable rate, you can measure time by determining the ratio of uranium atoms to the lead atom.

GALAXIES
2. Since galaxies in outer space are receding from the earth, you can measure time by learning the distance of galaxies from the earth and the rate at which they are moving.

In using the first line of argument, he said scientists fixed the age of the earth at 3.3 billion years. In using the second argument, he said scientists had made "a mistake" in thinking one of the outer galaxies was closer to the earth than it actually is. As a result, they figured the age of the earth was 1.8 billion years. But studies reported last year, he said, showed an outer galaxy was twice as far away as the scientists first thought—and thus the age of the earth is more than three billion years.

"DELIGHTED"
Dr. McCrady, who has conducted research for the Atomic Energy Commission, said he was "delighted" to learn the scientists had made a mistake. He said he had even expressed the hope last year that they had made an error in calculating distances of the outer galaxy so that the findings on the age of the earth would jibe.

"And that's exactly what happened," he said.
Dr. McCrady, who was introduced by Dr. Blake R. Van Leer, president of Tech, spoke under the

The Cost of Having Wilmer

Financially, the United States made a bad deal when it hired Pvt. Wilmer Mizell to pitch for its Army. That's how the fellows were figuring it the other night at Ponce de Leon Park while the leading citizen of Vinegar Bend, Ala., was mystifying the Crackers.

First, some fellows playing mountain music and singing loud and clear had filled the ball park with their twangy tones. It had occurred to a transient visiting the dugout of the Fort McPherson team while the hillbillies were carrying on that Wilmer himself had once been a ballad crooner of sorts.

"Why don't you join up and sing a tune or two with them guys?" the visitor asked. "You've done some high-class singing in your time, haven't you?"

"I have," said Wilmer, bobbing his head up and down. "You know that song, 'Country Boy'? The one that went, 'Just a plain ole country boy, cornbread-lovin' country boy.' Well, that was my specialty. Me and my buddy used to sing that at Albany. I need my buddy to sing it with me, though."

Wilmer's buddy was a catcher named Willie Osteen. Willie was just a fair catcher, but he sang pretty good and he was a good boy. Good influence on young ployboys just fresh out of the furrows, such as Wilmer. That was in 1949, and Willie played another year or two. The St. Louis Cardinals, which owned him and Wilmer, invited him to play for Allentown, Pa., one year and Willie up and quit.

It wasn't that he held anything against Allentown, Pa. It was just that he'd had enough of Class D. C and B league cooking, and his wife had a good job, and he had one, too, so he just quit. Besides, Wilmer had done gone to the big leagues. Not on his voice, but his pitching arm.

—Just a Soldier of Misfortune

About that financial deal the United States made, though, it works out this way:

Wilmer was pitching for the Cardinals last year when the Army desired him. He won 13 games and was looking like he was about to get pretty great. He'd been paid $10,000 that year, and if you figure it at about $1,000 a victory, then he'd have been making about $13,000 this year. That means he'd have paid the U.S. about $3,000 in income taxes.

As Private Mizell, Wilmer makes $86 a month, out of which the United States takes a cut of about $8 in taxes. That means the U.S. is losing something like $2,924 on the deal, which isn't the way to make money, as I see it.

It really isn't much to be paying for a left-handed pitcher like Wilmer, but the way they've been wrangling about excise taxes and luxury taxes and who's going to pay for the H-bomb, it sort of sounds like they could use the money. And I know the Cardinals could use Wilmer.

"Just think what it would be like, now that we've got Vic Raschi," Eddie Stanky, the manager, said down in Florida. Then, almost cooing like a happy dove, and squinting his eyes, dreamy like, he added: "Haddix. Staley. Raschi and Mizell, one, two, three, four—how'd that be for a starting order?"

—He Captivated the City Slickers

Wilmer was pretty philosophical about everything that night. "Sure, I'd rather be pitching for the Cardinals," he said, shifting an enormous cut of loose leaf and letting fly a stream of amber. "So would a lot of fellers. But I look at it this way. I been an awful lucky boy, anyway. I'm just happy to be among the living."

The biggest hassle of Wilmer's luck—everybody calls him Wilmer but his family, who call him David, which is his middle name—is wrapped up in Wilmer's ways. You should have seen the big league sports writers in Florida the first time they saw Wilmer walk out to the mound, and the first time they heard that name Vinegar Bend.

They couldn't get to a typewriter soon enough. They wrote about him like he was a new Will Rogers and Lefty Gomez in one big boyish frame. They admired his plow jockey gait, and they sat and gazed into his honest face, and he almost converted some of the literary scoundrels without doing anything but smiling sweet at them. He was just about the darndest thing they'd ever seen.

Of course, down around Vinegar Bend, Wilmer David isn't unusual. Everybody's like him. Sort of like Deacon Andy Griffith up in my country. Up there Deacon wouldn't draw much of a house, because everybody around my little old town talks like he does.

And the major leagues haven't changed Wilmer one whit. That's what I like about him. He's still the same boy he was when I first wrote a magazine piece about him two years ago. They'll never change anything about Vinegar Bend, except maybe the brand of tobacco he chews.

Rolader Wins Bowling Title

Ezra Rolader, tall, cigar-smoking Atlanta bowler, whipped more than 200 entries to take the State 10 Pin championship at the Buckhead Alleys after two straight weekends of competition.

Rolader took the crown with a scratch 1,641 total and a handicap 1,884 score. He also teamed with Jim Harvey of Atlanta to win the state doubles title with a 1,276 score.

Marler Thomas of Marietta won the team championship with a 3-0-16.

Joe Anderson of Atlanta was second in the singles with a 649 total and Randall Brothers finished second in the team competition with a 2,882 card.

Odds Favor Davey in TV Fight

Dreyer Hoping To Box Close

OAKLAND, Calif., April 6 (AP)—Chuck Davey today ruled a strong favorite to win his 18-round nationally televised fight tomorrow night against Gerry Dreyer, former British Empire welterweight champion.

But local boxing followers believed Davey, the quick-stepping left hander, may have all he can handle and more when he faces Dreyer in Oakland auditorium.

Speed and boxing skill favor Davey, the ex-Michigan state fighter. But in workouts here Dreyer appeared the stronger of the two.

Ring followers declared that if Dreyer was able to make Davey fight at close quarters he might beat him.

Cuts could prove a problem for Davey, as in his second meeting with Carmen Basilio. Davey won the decision but both eyes were so lacerated that he was sidelined for a long time.

Davey's record shows 45 contests, with only four losses and two draws. Dreyer has had 42 fights, winning 36, losing 4 and with 2 draws. Davey has 26 knockouts and Dreyer 19.

The fight will be televised over CBS at 10 p.m. (EST). The local area will not be blacked out. California's scoring system is known as the "split 11" system. An even round would give each fighter 3½ points. The winner of a round could receive 6 or more points, and the lower 5 or as little as 1.

OPENING TEAM SET

Nat Peeples Listed As Cracker Starter

By JESSE OUTLAR

Unless the Atlanta Crackers acquire a "better" left fielder than Nat Peeples before Friday's opener in Mobile, the 27-year-old slugger will become the first Negro to play in the Southern Association.

Manager Whitlow Wyatt reached this decision on Peeples before Tuesday night's exhibition game with Toledo. "He's the best left fielder we have," Wyatt said, "and unless the Braves send a better man here, Peeples will play in Mobile."

Based on spring records, Peeples deserves a starting call. The Memphis native has batted .348, poled six of the club's 14 homers and knocked in 13 runs.

Barring a late change, Peeples, who hit .331 a year ago at Evansville, will be one of three rookies among the Cracker starters. First baseman Frank Torre, a .313 stick man at Denver in his lone season of pro ball before entering the Army, and peppery Billy Porter the shortstop up from Jacksonville, are the other two first-year men.

Paul Rambone, leading Cracker RBI producer with 15, is stationed at second and Vern Petty rounds out the infield at third.

Junior Wooten, Cracker first baseman for the past two seasons, will start his 10th season in the Southern in center field. Chuck Tanner, a four-time Cracker, will operate in right.

Veteran Jim Solt, returning to the Crackers after a year at Toledo, will be behind the plate.

Bob Giggie, 20-year-old right-hander, won the pitching nomination last Sunday by limiting the Boston Red Sox to one run in seven innings.

Giggie is one of six pitchers Wyatt tapped for starting duties Tuesday. The others are Leo Cristante, Jim Pope, Bill George, Dick Kelly and Bob Trowbridge. Noel Oquendo and Bill Ayers head up the bullpen.

Wyatt hasn't picked his fourth outfielder or a utility man. In fact, they may not even be on the club now.

SPARTANBURG, S.C., April 6 (AP)—A 475-foot double by Del Ennis and Willie Jones' 9th inning home run were the scoring punch as the Philadelphia Phillies came on with a late-inning rush to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 4-0, today in the first major league baseball game in this southern city in 10 years.

Ennis doubled home Richie Ashburn and Earl Torgeson in the eighth inning after they had singled and walked.

The Phillies had cracked the scoreless duel in the 7th on singles by Torgeson and Ennis, a sacrifice by Wyrostek and catcher Smoky Burgess' single.

why Wilson Dyna-Weight Irons can deliver more distance...

"Everything about a Dyna-Weight helps you whack the ball farther. The head, for instance, has a special weight distribution that converts the entire face into a power hitting area. And the new Wilson-specified Rocket shaft by True Temper keeps the 'feel' of the iron down near the head. Means you know where the Dyna-Weight head is... all through your swing. Makes it a lot easier to feed in more power without losing control. You can't beat the tackiness of the Wilson grip, either. Keeps your hands solid at impact—in any weather. Wilson Dyna-Weights really deliver distance. Look 'em over next time you're in a pro shop."

Cracker Bats Unload To Pound Sox, 9-2

Torre, Petty Homer; Ayers, Grissom Star on Hill; Clubs Go at 3 P. M. Today

By JESSE OUTLAR

For the first time this spring, Atlanta pitchers pitched and the hitters hit in the same game Tuesday night and the result was a 9-2 rout of Toledo—the Crackers' most lopsided triumph in 20 exhibition outings.

A Ponce de Leon Park paying turnout of only 887 and 232 lady guests watched Manager Whitlow Wyatt's men make it two in a row over the Sox and improve their chart to 7-12-1.

Rookie Herb Grissom and veteran Bill Ayers supplied the strong pitching, a sparkling six-hitter marred only by a pair of homers.

Frank Torre, Vern Petty and Chuck Tanner furnished the power, a commodity of which there has been an acute shortage.

Torre, who doesn't have the reputation of being a home run hitter, rammed his second round-tripper in as many days, and Petty, who isn't noted for being a long-ball belter, smacked his second in three games.

Tanner chipped in with a pair of doubles, including a three-run blast in the fifth. Billy Porter also whacked a two-bagger, as five of the nine Crackers hit for extra bases.

The 21-year-old Grissom lifted himself off the borderline by manning the Sox on four hits in the first six stanzas. He struck out seven—all in the first four innings—and walked only two.

Ex-cracker Pete Whisenant powered a homer in the second, but Toledo got only one other runner to second while Grissom was on duty.

When he left for the showers after the sixth, he handed Ayers a fat 9-1 lead. Starter Glenn Thompson's generosity—he walked seven and hit one—helped the Crackers to stack up that margin.

Whisenant's shot over the left-field fence put Toledo on top in the second, but the Crackers' took charge of Thompson and the game in the third.

Billy Porter, who had forced Grissom and stolen second, was aboard when Torre planted his homer in the right-field signs in that round. Petty then rammed one over the left fence to open the fourth and the Crackers were away and winging, 3-1.

The Crackers enjoyed three-run prosperity in both the fifth and sixth. Thompson set the stage for Tanner's three-run hit down the left-center slot by signing three passes in the fifth.

Porter's run-producing single and two more walks in the sixth completed Thompson's stay.

His successor, Al Dumouchelle, was greeted by Paul Rambone's two-run single, which ended Cracker scoring. Right-hander Ray Riplemyer blanked the Crackers for the last two heats.

Lone run off Ayers came in the ninth when Earl Hersh walked a solo homer into the signs.

Out front, 2-0, the Crackers will attempt to wrap up the four-game series Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Jack Brittin will hurl for Atlanta, and Virgil Jester for the Sox.

Slow Mat Perfect for Chips, Ben Says;

AUGUSTA, April 6—There are two schools of thought on the way the scoring will go in the 18th annual Masters golf tournament opening here Thursday.

Ben Hogan, the defending champion who posted a sensational 274 to break the old record by five strokes last year, believes that under ideal conditions such as prevailed during Tuesday's practice rounds, the '34 champion may eclipse the mark by a couple of strokes.

The little Texan bases his prediction on the slowness of the greens, always the big factor in this tourney. Most of the 18 carpets at Augusta National are infested with poa annua, an early-growing spring grass, which makes it impossible to slick them up as in most of the past tournaments.

This condition will slow the putting surface down somewhat, but where it will really help the players is on those delicate chip shots into the green.

But Gene Sarazen, a former Masters' champion, doesn't see it Hogan's way. Gene says the winner won't break 280. And there are many who agree with the little sardine. It was 14 years (11 tournaments) before Ralph Guldahl's 279 was wiped from the record books. They just don't kick records around here at random. Last year the weatherman kept the mowers off the greens and Hogan ate them up. This year the poa annua is here but the mowers are working. And then the cup setter could take a hand.

Come Sunday afternoon, the answer to this question will be adequately answered. Meanwhile, the 76 players already on hand and the five more due Wednesday set up an all-time record entry. Last year's 71 was the previous high.

While most of the experts on hand are still stringing along with Hogan, Jackie Burke Jr., the Houston, Tex., native playing out of Klamath Lake, N.Y., was getting hotter by the minute in practice rounds.

Of course, as they say, they don't start counting until Thursday, but you can't write off the fact that Jackie is shooting sensational golf after a rather mediocre showing on the winter tour.

Playing in a foursome with Hogan, Claude Harmon, the '48 masters champion, and amateur Bob Sweeney, Tuesday, Burke fired a five-under-par 67 for his fifth straight subpar round. He had a 68 Monday and prior to that a 66, 67 and 70.

Hogan was having trouble on the greens and wound up with an even par 72. Harmon carded a 71.

Other good practice rounds reported Tuesday were: Billy Maxwell, 68; Chick Harbert, 69; Vic Ghezzi, 70; Ken Venturi, 70; Pete Cooper, 70; Jerry Barber, 71; Sam Snead, 72.

Harvie Ward, ex-Atlanta resident, now playing from San Francisco, posted a 73, while Arnold Blum, the Walker Cup alternate from Macon, shot a 75.

Jimmy Demaret, the only three time winner, paused after his practice round to predict some of the fine crop of youngsters here would be well up in the race. Jimmy also admitted he was playing well. Don't be surprised if he hobs up in the thick of the picture again. Jimmy likes this course and his record speaks for itself.

Freddie Corcoran, public relations director of Professional Golfers' Assn., believes the amateurs have their best chance to crash through ever. "If they don't win this time they'll never make it," said the Cork. There are 21 simon-pures (a new record) scheduled to go to the post.

CHIP SHOTS: This will be big Al Bessell's last tournament as a bachelor. The handsome blond who twice won the Southern Intercollegiate tournament at Athens before turning pro, will wed Jo Ann Stillwagon at Houston, Tex., a week from Saturday. . . . Billy Maxwell, another two-time winner of the Southern Intercollegiate, sends best wishes to Johnny Carson and his Athens friends.

Billy, now playing as a professional, is stationed at Fort Hood, Tex. He gets out of the service in August. . . . When Horton Smith won the inaugural Masters here in 1934, only five Pinkerton men were employed to handle the ticket duties, etc. This year there will be 53 on hand.

Pressing business made it necessary for veteran amateurs Johnny Dawson of Palm Springs, Calif., and Chick Evans of Chicago to wire their regrets. Veteran professional Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kansas, also withdrew because of a pulled shoulder muscle. Former National Amateur champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., is on the doubtful list. . . . Peter Thompson of Australia, is the lone foreign entry. . . . Gardner Dickinson Jr., the former Macon youngster, now assistant to Ben Hogan at Tamarisk Country Club, Palm Springs, Calif., says his putter is giving him trouble. Gardner hasn't played in a tournament this winter.

Dodd Tabs Brooks For All-America

Junior Guard Sparks Drills;
Muddy Field Slows Jackets

By LARRY FOX

A healthy Frank Brooks should be an all-America Frank Brooks next fall, Bobby Dodd said Tuesday as he summed up the results of the early phases of Georgia Tech's spring football practice.

Brooks, the 5-11, 190-pound Atlanta guard, was brilliant as a freshman two years ago, starred as a sophomore last season until a knee injury in the Notre Dame game hustled him to the sidelines for three games, slowed him for the rest.

Frank Brooks

Now, his knee completely healed, Brooks is his old block-busting self and one of the brightest spots in a productive spring session at the Flats.

"We've given Brooks' knee a complete test in some rough scrimmage already," Dodd said Tuesday as the Jackets romped on muddy Rose Bowl Field. "And the knee has come through fine. He's all football player, and if we have a good season next year and he doesn't get hurt, he should make all-America."

"I'm not saying he will make all-America," Dodd explained,

"but he certainly will be a candidate. And if stays healthy and we have a pretty good season, he should get the recognition he deserves."

Brooks, an intense 20-year-old whose muscles grow taut and quiver as he poises for the charge, takes his football seriously and that's one reason why Tech coaches are raving.

As a veteran regular, he wasn't expected to partake in much of the heavy scrimmaging but work mostly on offense since he broke in as a defensive platoon.

But Brooks took the layoff as a personal slight, thought someone was moving in ahead of him, and pouted and fretted until they finally threw him into a heavy drill.

That was Saturday's game-style battle and Brooks all but wrecked the proceedings. He charged in with a gusto, made six or seven quick tackles and brought howls from the opposing coaches. "Get Brooks out of there. How can we try any-

Tatum Named Coach Of College All-Stars

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—Jim Tatum, coach of the Maryland team voted tops in the 1953 Associated Press football poll, today was named to direct the college All-Stars against the Detroit Lions at Soldier Field the night of Aug. 13.

Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune which sponsors the all-star game, said that while Tatum will be in command of the Collegians, his specific job will be to prepare the defenses against the Lions.

One of his all-star assistants, Charles (Bud) Wilkinson of Oklahoma, will be in charge of the collegiate offense. Several more assistants, from the Far West and Midwest, will be named later.

Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners defeated Tatum's Maryland Terrapins, 7-0 in last New Year's Orange Bowl game at Miami for Maryland's sole loss of the season.

The all-stars again will train at Purdue University, La Fayette, Ind., a squad of about 50 top 1953 seniors reporting July 23.

Wilkinson was in charge of the 1949 all-stars, who lost to the Philadelphia Eagles, 38-0. Tatum was an assistant on the all-star staff headed by Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech in 1952.

Marciano, Ez Select Camps

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and challenger Ezzard Charles will train at Catskill Mountain resorts only 14 miles apart.

Charles' comanagers, Tom Tanas and Jake Mintz today selected Kutsher's Country Club at Monticello, N.Y., as the spot where the former heavyweight king will prepare for his title fight with Marciano at Yankee Stadium June 17.

Marciano already has begun work at his long-time camp at the Grossinger Country Club.

Charles, of Cincinnati, trained in the same area in 1950 when he was getting ready for his fight with Joe Louis.

Decatur's Fuller Baffles Marist; Smith's Hall Pitches One-Hitter

Sewell, Rice Allow 3 Blows;
Brown Shades O'Keefe, 6-5

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Earl Fuller, Decatur High's star of three major sports, left his first baseman's mitt and batting clothes at home and mounted the hill to hurl the Bulldogs to a Region 4-AA League opening triumph over Marist at Decatur Tuesday.

The stocky son of a Protestant minister limited Boots Payne's Cadets to five blows, walked six and fanned four in a 7-2 victory which marked his debut as a pitching regular.

Meanwhile, sparkling hurling was the order of the day in the four City League games not washed out by rain. The top hill stint was by Smith's Billy Hall, who whitewashed Northside, 9-0, on a one-hit, six-strike out, five-walks effort. Pepper Chastain's fifth-frame single robbed him in his bid for a no hitter.

North Fulton's Joe (Coot) Sewell and Roosevelt's Fred Rice notched three hitters, turning back Southwest, 4-0, and Bass, 3-1. Most important victory was a 6-5 decision by Brown over O'Keefe, a triumph that put the Johnny Rebs at the top of the league standings.

Play of the day was turned in by center-fielder Tommy Morton, whose three hits in four trips for O'Keefe gave him seven for 10 this season. Specs-wearing Morton made a running, diving catch of a drive off Bop Scott's bat, a grab one seldom sees in any brand of baseball.

Fuller, who walked three times, left the hitting chores to Randy Hudgins, Bob Mathews and Bill Boland as he bested Marist's Joe McGee and Bubba Brisbane. Hudgins lashed a triple and single, Mathews a triple, Boland a double. Bona Allen IV socked two singles, Mark Garin a double for the losers.

Gilbert Adair, who had a two-for-three day, secured the Smith conquest with a two-run homer in the first inning. Bobby Keenum's double and Bobby Braden's single were the only other blows off Northside's Billy Smith and Rick Madison.

Rice and Eugene Hall had two hits apiece in sparking the Roosevelt attack on Troy Howell and Al Gene Lowe. Roland Hesmondhalgh bested O'Keefe's Billy Powell for Brown as Harold Hobgood pelted a double and single, and Pudgy Hartsfield scored the winning run from third on an error in the last inning. Farrell Farr had three pokes for O'Keefe.

Sewell fanned five, walked six in besting Southwest's Jimbo Towery, who whiffed eight. Lawson Hope, Larry Coleman and Earl Mitchell smote doubles and Leo Sexton a triple for North Fulton. Tom Inman and Jackie Harmon belted a double each for the Wolves.

Chestnut's Relief Chore Nets Chamblee Victory

Ace Hurler Stops SW DeKalb;
Clarkston Clobbers Lithonia

Chamblee lashed Southwest DeKalb, 10-7, for its third consecutive victory without defeat in the DeKalb County high school baseball league Tuesday and tied all that Lithonia managed off Joel Upchurch and Buster Benton. Avondale will be at Clarkston at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday, same time at which Tucker will invade Stone Mountain to play off Tuesday's postponed affair. The rained out Druid Hills-Avondale game will be played Thursday at Druid Hills.

Tony Palma's Chamblee nine weathered a three-run first inning by Southwest DeKalb, but finally has to call upon ace hurler Alex Chestnut for a relief job to secure the victory.

Eugene Marshall rapped a double and two singles, Bob Pugh, Eddie Grider and Jack Blanton a pair of singles each and Chestnut a double in leading the Chamblee assault on the Panthers' Billy Mitchell and Wimp Collier.

Collier belted a pair of hits for Southwest DeKalb, and Mike Duke had one blow for two trips. Billy Wilson, who led the league in hitting in 1953, and Leonard Buffington and Charlie Rutledge socked two safeties apiece in aiding Taylor with the Clarkston stickwork.

Max Mathews had three safeties and Larry Cameron a triple.

SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION PREVIEW NO. 7

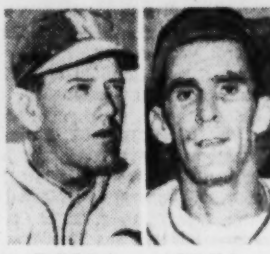

Poland Has Big Rebuilding Job

By F. M. WILLIAMS

Nashville Tennessean Baseball Writer (Written for the Associated Press) MELBOURNE, Fla., April 6 (P). There is only one thing certain about the 1954 edition of the Nashville baseball team — it will be composed of strangers to Southern Association fans.

Only a shell of that fine team which finished second in the pennant race last year, won the playoffs and carried Dallas six games in the Dixie series, will be around when the Vols open the campaign Friday night against Little Rock.

Manager Hugh Poland, starting his third year as head man of the Nashville team, must replace such brilliant performers as pitchers Jack Harshman (23-7) and Jim Constable (19-13); Bob Boring, who hit .322 as a third baseman; Billy Gardner, all-star shortstop; Gail Harris, first baseman; Bill Taylor, the league's leading hitter last year; and Rube Novotney, probably the best catcher in the loop.

Hugh Poland Pete Modica

Just how much help the Minneapolis Millers and New York Giants will give Nashville remained a mystery as the Vols broke camp to head for home.

At the conclusion of spring practice two men had been assigned. Pete Modica, an expert relief pitcher, was returned by the Giants after developing a sore arm, and Bob Lennon, outfielder, was sold by Minneapolis to the Southern Association outfit.

When the Vols left spring training, two men had assured themselves of jobs, other than pitchers. Alex Cosmidis, who hit an even .300 last year, is certain to open at second base and Bobby Caldwell, a fielding wizard up from Danville, Va., will be at third.

Poland has been pretty well satisfied with his pitching staff the start of spring work. Dick Libby and Spec Padgett, left and right handed, respectively, have proven they can win in double A baseball.

Libby joined the Vols last August 1 and posted a record of five wins and two losses while Padgett won 11 and lost 7 in the Pacific Coast League.

Several rookies have looked good this spring. Tops, perhaps, among the newcomers is a southpaw named Joe Stupak, who won 19 games for seventh place Sioux City, of the Western League, last season.

Another is knuckle ball artist Jim Graves, just out of military service, who asked for a chance in double A ball and quickly won himself a job. Dick Hamlin, 16-20 last year at Sioux City and Dom Zanni, who won 15 and lost 15 last year at Muscogee, have also looked good.

The Vols are weak behind the plate, with only Bob Pottenger, second stringer last year, on the roster.

Poland plans to alternate Lennon and a strong righthanded hitter named Eric Rodin in one outfield spot.

Just before the Vols broke camp to return to Sulphur Dell, they learned they had acquired Dick Getter, a righthander hitting outfielder, but would have to start the season with the personnel on hand.

PROOF

What Does It Mean—
In A Whiskey?

READ THIS—IT MAY CHANGE YOUR WHISKEY-BUYING HABITS OVERNIGHT!

Just what is Proof? Proof is the measure of a whiskey's "strength." Proof is exactly double the "alcoholic content" in a whiskey. Most leading blends today are no more than 86 Proof. Some are even less. But Fleischmann's is a full 90 Proof. And this means that Fleischmann's gives you more flavor—more enjoyment in every sip of every drink.

This extra Proof is one reason why Fleischmann's pleases so many people. It's like getting a nice surprise when you least expect it. So try some Fleischmann's today. You'll find that no other whiskey offers you so much. And you—and your friends—will agree that Fleischmann's will be your favorite blended whiskey from now on.

Presbyterian Church Near for Clarkston

A new Presbyterian church, intended to serve the Clarkston, Pine Lake and Stone Mountain communities, will be organized formally at 11 a.m. Sunday at the Clarkston Woman's Club.

The church is to serve one of the 10 areas selected to receive possible assistance from the Presbyterian Officers' Assn. of Greater Atlanta.

A site for the church has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bachman, who will be charter members. Approximately three acres in size, the lot is located at 4900 Memorial Dr. near Rays road. It is valued at approximately $10,000.

Dr. Richard T. Gillespie, professor at Columbia Theological Seminary who has served as supply pastor for the congregation, said officers for the new church will be ordained at the service Sunday. Dr. F. C. Talmadge, Atlanta Presbytery's secretary of church extension, will preach.

Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, will speak at an evening service at 7:30 o'clock Sunday.

Three meetings will be held earlier in the week in preparation for the organizational meeting. A family night supper is scheduled at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. B. H. Dickson, pastor of Rock Springs Presbyterian Church, will preach at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. James Hazelwood will preach Friday evening. A charter list of some 50 names has been presented to the Atlanta Presbytery, Dr. Gillespie said. A committee will be appointed to name the church.

Money Bill Includes SE Power Unit

Constitution Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, April 6 — An appropriation of $1,228,000 for operations of the Southeastern Power Administration office at Elberton, was carried in the Interior Department annual supply bill, approved by the House today.

Representative Paul Brown of Georgia, in whose home town the office is located, said the funds were in keeping with recommendations of the budget and would be adequate for all purposes. The amount given the Elberton headquarters represented a slight increase over appropriations for last year.

Folk Dances To Highlight Tulip Festival

"Burgomaster" William B. Hartsfield, mayor of Atlanta, will preside at the fourth annual tulip festival at 6 p.m. Wednesday at Hurt Park.

More than 200 costumed dancers will participate in the celebration. Dutch folk dances, choral numbers and other specialties will feature the festival.

Miss Marie Shore will be queen and representatives of the Tulip Study Club will comprise the court. The study club and the recreational division of the Atlanta Parks Department are co-sponsors of the festival.

Mayor Hartsfield invited Atlantans to visit the park, saying floodlights of the Municipal Auditorium have been set to play on the park with its thousands of tulips.

"Hurt Park has never been more beautiful," the mayor said. "We invite citizens and visitors to see it at its most beautiful best. The spectacle will be just as gorgeous at night as in daylight with the floodlights on."

$234 Million In U.S. Taxes Paid in State

A total of $234,588,439 in taxes has been collected by the federal Internal Revenue Service in Georgia since Jan. 1.

The sum is some $3,329,365 more than had been collected in the same period last year. It represents individual income taxes, corporation taxes, estimated tax payments, withholding taxes and Social Security payments, unemployment and carriers' taxes, and excise, estate, gift, liquor and tobacco taxes.

Knifed Worker Charged With Falsifying Report

A 23-year-old laundry company employee who at first refused to say how he received a knife wound across the face Tuesday was booked on charges of making a false report, police said.

Charles Stevenson, 23, of 311 Ponce de Leon Ave., N.E., at first refused to say how he received a three-inch knife wound across the left cheek. Detectives O. W. Jordan and J. G. Adams said.

He later admitted the wound was inflicted during an argument with his wife, detectives said. Stevenson is scheduled for trial at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday in Municipal Court.

Reds Free 2 GIs Seized in West

BERLIN, April 6 (AP)—Two American soldiers, who U.S. officials said were seized by Russian troops inside the U.S. sector of West Germany, were freed late today.

They were Sgt. J. W. Young of Rochester Mills, Pa., and Pvt. Luther G. Woods of Winona, W.Va. Twenty Russian troops led by an officer crossed the zonal border and seized the GIs yesterday, U.S. authorities said.

'A Woman's Touch' All Bachelors' Roost Lacks

By DOTTY LUNDY

Joe Hardy's and Jim Singleton's bachelor apartment has every decorative refinement but a woman's touch. The two bachelors came South from New York last August as interior decorator and manager of an Atlanta home decorating store. In December they moved into an apartment at 405 Fourth St. and began scrubbing and painting.

Wrestling cobwebs and cracked plaster was nothing new to Joe and Jim. They renovated a decrepit three-story house in New York giving it a charming Early American interior. At onset the only pioneer feature was the plumbing, which consisted of little more than a leaky roof. Jim was the official plumber.

The two men had their period accessories shipped from New York which they combined with modern, casual furniture. The apartment house, located in a business zone, was convenient to work, but no decorator's dream inside or out.

TACKLE SPACE PROBLEM

Joe and Jim tackled the space problem by painting walls — woodwork, radiators and all — with a rubber base paint in quiet colors. The living room is olive with a beige cotton carpet. Floors, gummy from layers of varnish, were sanded and refinished with a mixture of black flat paint and walnut stain to keep them subdued. Draperies and lampshades are sandwood. The hall and kitchen are mustard. Bedroom walls are beige, with matching spreads.

An angel motif over the doorway (not the fallen type, they insist) and a scone over the easy chair fitted with wrought iron candlesticks had a common ancestor — a rococo Italian table.

DINING HALL

Joe, who attended Parsons School of Design in New York, painted a still life in the living room. He also moulded vases, bowls and ashtrays in the apartment.

The narrow hall opposite kitchen and bath was furnished for dining. An aluminum picnic table was covered with a cocoa brown table cloth and the legs painted with black flat paint to simulate wrought iron. Italian frescoes hang over the table.

Back in the bedroom Joe hung a copper weathervane and English saddle brasses above his desk.

Celestine Sibley

A Goodby From Mrs. Bell

Mrs. Arizona Bell came to say good-by. She came in looking smart and spruce in a jaunty little hat with a silver dogwood brooch at her throat and a sparkly diamond-like pin on her lapel but she leaned on a stick and limped heavily when she walked. She talked so softly and gently if I hadn't heard her hawking The Constitution on the corner of Broad and Walton streets night after night in a hoarse, carrying voice I might have taken her for one of those lavender-and-old-lace old ladies who pride themselves on voices no louder than the rush of a chimney sweep's wing.

But Mrs. Bell is a gallant, tough-fibred, outspoken little woman of such unquenchable youth few people can bring themselves to believe she is the full 94 years her birth certificate shows. And a great many people who count themselves her friends and customers will be astonished to find her missing from her regular corner these nights for such a dull reason as the one she gives: Old age.

"Yes, I'm old," said Mrs. Bell, cupping her hands over the crook of her walking stick and sighing. "I know it now. I fell and hurt my hip and I couldn't carry my papers or get around the way I like to and I just got to thinking about it. Sometimes a stubborn old person can be more trouble than a meek helpless one. So I'm going home and look after myself."

She said it in such a low, spiritless tone I felt a wave of blues sweeping over me. For Mrs. Arizona Bell to give up . . . for the intrepid little woman who has traveled the world over, playing in stock, riding in circuses, telling fortunes, nursing, sewing, housekeeping and selling papers night after night in all weather . . . for her to get old and give up! It was sad and depressing.

But Mrs. Bell cut short my morose maunderings by saying crisply:

"Oh, I've got my plans, all right. That little apartment on Dodd avenue doesn't take up much of my time. Feeding one old lady is quick business. I'm thinking of giving lectures on my life. Some ladies have mentioned it to me and I think I might give it a try. What do you think?"

Well, it has been quite a life, Mrs. Bell's. She came to Atlanta in search of a foster son she expected to be stationed at Fort McPherson in May, 1911. He had been shipped to the Pacific coast instead and she arrived here penniless and friendless. She knew she could sell newspapers and she went in the circulation department and sold herself as a super street saleswoman.

"I had to work four weeks to earn enough to rent a room and in the meantime I slept in the bus station and in a parked car belonging to one of the men. But it didn't take me long to make friends, good friends, and I made money, too—enough to pay $199 income tax that first year!"

Now the proud little news vendor is quitting—and she wants to say a word of thanks to all the people who have befriended her and bought her papers. She couldn't list them all. They are too numerous, both white and black, but she has them listed in her heart and she wants to thank them.

"Put the address in there," she said. "It's 208 Dodd Ave., SW, and tell them all I'll be proud to see them."

Miss Watson Is Wed to D. R. Fausett

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Fausett are honeymooning in Gatlinburg, Tenn., following their marriage solemnized Friday evening at the West End Baptist Church by Dr. O. Norman Shands.

The bride is the former Dixie Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Watson who entertained at a reception in the church parlors after the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Binns as maid of honor, Mrs. Fisher Staton, Miss Lucina Fausett, Miss Norma Jean Sayer and Miss Joyce Abbey as bridesmaids.

Floyd Fausett Jr. was best man for his brother, and in the double role of usher-groomsman were James Watson, Gene Reagan, Billy Gilmer and Jimmy Harvell.

Mrs. Zsuffa Wins Contest On Decorating

Mrs. Leslie F. Zsuffa of 55 Muscogee Ave., NW, was notified by the publisher of a national home decorating magazine that she was winner of a nation-wide contest for submitting the best letter on "What does your home mean to you and your family?"

The Zsuffas bought their home when Col. Zsuffa returned from Army duty in the Korean War. He is at present public relations director for Georgia Tech.

W. W. Wood, editor of the publication, announced "The simple eloquence of her reply singled out Mrs. Zsuffa's letter as the best of a superlative lot, received from all over the United States."

The letter read, in part, "We have just bought a dream. To the passerby, it is just another old house set high on a hill. Nothing smart about it. But to us, it is our dream come true."

Mrs. Floyd Fausett Jr. kept the bride's book at the reception, and Misses Susanne Edmondson, Betty Ann Hulsey, Carolyn McElveen and Mrs. Marie Reagan assisted in entertaining.

Georgia Federation Discusses Loyalty Questionnaire at Convention

ALBANY, April 6—Georgia's controversial loyalty questionnaire for state employees came up for consideration of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs Tuesday, as representatives of the 15,000-member organization opened an annual convention here.

Three hundred delegates gathered under the helm of Atlanta's Mrs. Chester Martin are expected not only to endorse the questionnaire but to ask for state legislation to give private citizens "the privilege" of filling in the hotly debated form.

Mrs. R. C. Melton, Atlanta, acting in the absence of Mrs. Horace Ritchie, Athens, presented this resolution Tuesday. It will come up for final vote on Thursday.

spiced the opening day of the session. Doris Fleeson, Washington columnist, urged the club women to "free their minds of frustration" concerning the bomb and be ready for action on its control.

In a civil defense discussion Tuesday evening Jonesboro Women's Club and Marietta Junior Woman's Club were cited. Others named for important contributions to civil defense were Tifton and Waycross Junior woman's clubs and Sandy Springs, Wadley, Cornelia and Comer woman's clubs. Mrs. John G. Lewis, Atlanta, announced these awards.

CLUBS LAUDED

An ex-Georgian, W. Tapley Bennett of Washington, D.C.,

spoke on Tuesday evening as deputy director of South American affairs, U.S. State Department. Mr. Bennett discussed Western Hemisphere solidarity.

Clubs making the greatest drives in the past year in international goodwill and support of the U.N. were named by Mrs. Carlton Binns, Atlanta. They were, Moultrie Woman's Club, Thomasville and Tifton Junior Woman's Clubs.

JUNIORS ELECT

"Juniors," young matron division of the Federation, elected Mrs. Harold Willingham, Marietta, to head their 1600-member division for the coming two years. Other new junior officers are Mrs. Ray Willett, Thomasville, vice president; Mrs. Frank Wilkinson, West Point, recording secretary; Mrs. Harrison Mitchell, Marietta, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry Williams, Augusta, treasurer; and Mrs. Marvin Greenberg, Waycross, parliamentarian.

Along with bringing home the new state junior director, Marietta Junior Woman's Club will bring home a blue ribbon for the Federation's best flower arrangement. It was an elaborate pink daisy and snapdragon creation encircling a lighted globe, depicting international affairs.

Mrs. Mitchell To Head Junior Committee

Mrs. John O. Mitchell has been elected to head the junior committee of the Atlanta Symphony Guild for the second consecutive year.

Other new officers include Mrs. N. Barnard Murphy Jr., vice president; Mrs. Thomas Hal Clarke, recording secretary; Mrs. Theo B. Bean Jr., corresponding secretary and Mrs. Joseph Hatch, treasurer. The young matrons' group recently presented a check, proceeds from a luncheon-fashion show, to the woman's committee of the symphony for the maintenance and purchase of instruments for the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra.

A meeting of the junior committee will be held at the home of Mrs. Malon Courts, 146 West Wesley Rd. at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

SWEDISH VISITOR
Mrs. Vera Heth

Scandinavian Recipe Gift Of Visitor

By JEANNE HIGGINS

Good cooking proves as easily done as said for Mrs. Vera Heth, visiting Scandinavian, who had no difficulty in illustrating that Swedish cuisine is as exceptional as it is traditionally known to be.

On their way from a Florida vacation to their home in Eagle River, Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Heth are visiting friends in Atlanta where their choice family recipe is fast becoming a favorite dessert.

Mrs. Heth's Flower Garden Cake is a cool and airy combination of angel food cake pieces and a mixture of lemon custard, gelatin and beaten egg whites.

FLOWER GARDEN CAKE
6 egg yolks (beaten well)
¾ cup sugar
½ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. grated lemon rind
1 envelope gelatin (plain)
¾ cup cold water
6 egg whites stiffly beaten
¾ cup sugar
1 angel food cake

1. Make a custard of egg yolks, sugar, salt, juice and rind, by cooking together over hot water (not boiling) until thick. 2. Remove from heat and add one envelope plain gelatin that has been dissolved in the one-fourth cup cold water. Cool this mixture.

3. Beat the egg whites until stiff. 4. Add the three-fourths cup sugar gradually, beating in well. 5. Fold cold custard into the whites. 6. Break cake into pieces and place in well oiled angel food tin, adding custard. 7. Chill until firm and unmold.

GRIDIRON GAME INSPIRED MONOLOGUE, OPENED WAY TO NEW LIFE
"Deacon" Andy Griffith Looks On As Wife, Barbara, Gets Ready To Throw

'What It Wuz' Opened
New Life for Barbara

By BETTY CARROLLTON

Pretty Barbara Griffith agrees that the monologue on "cow-pasture" football recorded by her husband, "Deacon" Andy Griffith, is zany. But the sensational disc, which introduced a new type of entertainment in America, opened a new way of life for Barbara.

"It all happened so fast, it's unbelievable," Barbara declared here where Andy is convulsing audiences during his engagement at a local nightclub. "You read of it happening to other people and you think it's great. But when it happens to you, it's just wonderful."

Barbara and Andy, natives of North Carolina, were married in 1949 and had never been out of the Carolinas until he became an overnight sensation with his record, "What It Wuz, Wuz Football."

MUSIC, DRAMA MAJOR

Barbara attended high school in Troy, N.C., and after going to Converse College in Spartanburg she enrolled at Chapel Hill, where she stayed a year. She majored in music and drama and met Andy there in 1948.

Andy taught music in high schools for three years after their marriage in 1949, but he was not happy in his work. Then Barbara, who is a talented singer, dancer and actress, talked him into opening a talent agency in Chapel Hill with the two of them as the talent. The Griffiths appeared before civic groups and at conventions.

Their was a variety act, with Andy playing guitar, singing folk songs and doing comedy bits, while Barbara sang "pop" tunes and performed dance routines. The act caught on and bookings started pouring in.

"It was hard work," Barbara said, "especially since we did all our own bookkeeping and I was housekeeper on the side."

Andy's version of "cow-pasture" football was recorded at a life insurance convention in Greensboro, N.C., by a 19-year-old boy who had had no previous experience at cutting records. The Griffiths planned to sell the disc locally and ordered 500 for distribution. But the recording was an immediate hit and demand became too much for their small agency to handle. Then Capitol records bought rights to "What It Wuz" and Andy hit the big time in a big way.

OUT OF BUSINESS

"As of last December, I was out of business," Barbara joked. The Griffiths went to New York where they rented an apartment. Barbara returned to Chapel Hill to close the agency and superintend moving to the big city, before joining Andy for his night club tour.

"I've never traveled before," Barbara said, "and I think clothes are the biggest problem. It's difficult to pack the right clothes for different climates."

"I miss the privacy of our life in Chapel Hill, of course. And I miss cooking."

Trim, brown-haired Mrs. Griffith says she has been too involved with Andy's successes to miss her career but she hopes to resume acting in the future.

"Barbara is a brilliant actress," Andy said, "and I don't doubt for a minute that she'll get her big chance."

According to the "deacon," his lovely wife has "adjusted beautifully" to their new life. "I couldn't have made it without Barbara," he said seriously. "When I get nervous or confused, she pulls me out of it."

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith have never attended a football game together. "I'm not a football fan," Barbara said, "and don't understand the game too well. Andy gets hooked with me when we're listening to a game on the radio and has to explain it to me."

TV Stages Comedy on Immigrants

"Mr. Candido," a warm-hearted comedy about life on New York's upper East Side by Walt Anderson, will be presented on the Kraft Television Theater at 9 p.m. Wednesday night on WSB-TV.

Jose Perez, Pat McVey, Carlos Montalban, Joe Verdi, Muriel Berkson and Anna Appel head the cast of the comedy which is about immigrants whose spirits rose above their surroundings and made life in their crowded tenement a happy affair.

The play centers around the efforts of the tenement's people to secure the adoption of a homeless boy despite restrictions placed on their efforts by the law.

"Mr. Candido" was presented by the Theater Guild at Westport, Conn., Summer Theater and has twice been optioned for Broadway production.

Playwright Anderson is a journalist with a background in Latin American affairs who is especially qualified to write about Latin immigrants in the United States.

British Ace And Davey Fight on TV

Gerald Dryer, former British Empire light and welterweight champion, squares off with Chuck Davey in a 10-round welterweight boxing bout Wednesday at 10 p.m. on WAGA-TV, Channel 3.

Dryer has scored 36 victories, 19 of them by knockouts in 42 professional fights. The onetime British champ hails from South Africa.

Michigan State alumnus Chuck Davey will be going after his 40th victory in 45 professional bouts. Davey has stopped 26 opponents via the knockout route.

Veteran sportscaster Russ Hodges will describe the Pabst Blue Ribbon fight from ringside at the Oakland, Calif., Municipal Auditorium.

Margie Takes to Sea

"My Little Margie" takes to the open sea in Wednesday night's episode of the popular TV comedy starring Gale Storm and Charles Farrell.

Margie's salt-water junket begins when she goes aboard boyfriend Freddie Wilson's sea-going tugboat for a look around—then decides to stay around for the laughs when her dad, Vern, comes aboard.

As Freddie Takes Over

as part of his annual naval reserve cruise and has to take orders from the much-abused Freddie. The show is seen on WSB-TV at 8:30 p.m.

Butter Sales Up Here, Coffee Buying Dips

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Price-conscious Atlantians have reacted strongly to lower butter prices and higher coffee charges.

A survey Tuesday indicated that Junior is spreading the butter thicker on his bread, while Dad is learning to substitute tea for coffee.

Although federal dairy price supports were reduced from 90 to 75 per cent of parity April 1, one large grocery chain operating here cut butter prices 20 per cent two days earlier as a test of consumer buying.

Now, after just one week of lower prices, the Kroger Co.'s butter sales have tripled, District Manager F. A. Williams reported. And he is confident there will be a steady increase.

Furthermore, Williams said, margarine sales do not seem to have suffered so far. He said this is because consumers are probably spreading their butter a little more liberally than when it cost more.

Although other Atlanta area grocers have passed on the price cut, most said it would take longer for them to report a definite trend. Several, however, reported declining coffee sales and a significant switch to tea purchases.

One chain-store official who has kept a close watch on the almost weekly rise in coffee prices, reported coffee sales have fallen off 10 per cent in the past three months.

"I'm surprised they haven't dropped even more," he added.

Book Stresses Good Selling

The accent of all selling, retail and otherwise, will continue to be toward greater customer satisfaction, according to Dr. J. Whitney Bunting of Atlanta, president of Oglethorpe University.

In his new book on the "Essentials of Retail Selling," the educator also points out that "the trend toward an ever increasing national income will place far greater emphasis upon good selling."

The 137-page work, published this week by Bookman Associates, provides a comprehensive introduction to the sales field and strongly emphasizes the need for understanding the consumer. The author is qualified by 14 years of teaching marketing and allied courses. He is a graduate of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, where he also received M.A., M.B.A. and Ph.D. degrees, and at one time directed the University of Georgia's Bureau of Business Research.

Appliance Sales Up in Month

Although household appliance store sales in the Sixth Federal Reserve District were 5 per cent below the January level, they were 1 per cent greater than in February, 1953, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

Cotton Sags Moderately

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 10 to 35 cents a bale lower in moderately active trading today. Liquidation in nearby May and switching from old crop months to new crop deliveries was the feature.

Liquidating pressure on May tended to unsettle the balance of the market in late dealings. Buying of new crop months was predicated on the continued lack of rain in Texas.

The government in its first weekly weather comment this season on cotton said that indications were that March was the driest on record for Texas. Rain-fall for the state during the first quarter this year was only 50 per cent of normal.

A leading spot firm said that cotton made little progress in the Rio Grande Valley because of high winds and cool weather.

Rain is imperative in the Corpus Christi area within the next two or three weeks to keep cotton that is up growing and to complete planting. Mill demand for spot cotton remained light during the past week.

Exporters estimated that Spain purchased 20,100 bales of cotton here and Yugoslavia was credited with buying about 16,500 bales. Shippers were said to be covering futures today against sales to both of those countries. The improved export business was offset in part by news that some textile mills are curtailing production further because of a slow demand and unsatisfactory cloth prices.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Cotton futures advanced early here Tuesday but reacted downward in the late dealings under long realizing and hedge selling. Closing prices were barely steady 25 cents to 35 cents a bale lower.

Atlanta Spot Cotton

Report by Atlanta Cotton Exchange in cooperation with the U.S.D.A. Quotations for mixed lots equal to official standard, unpressed, basic, middling 15-16 inch 34.45c per pound. 5 from the previous close. This is 20 on New York May futures, rounded to nearest 1/16 cent. Number of bales purchased, 236.

COST OF LIVING

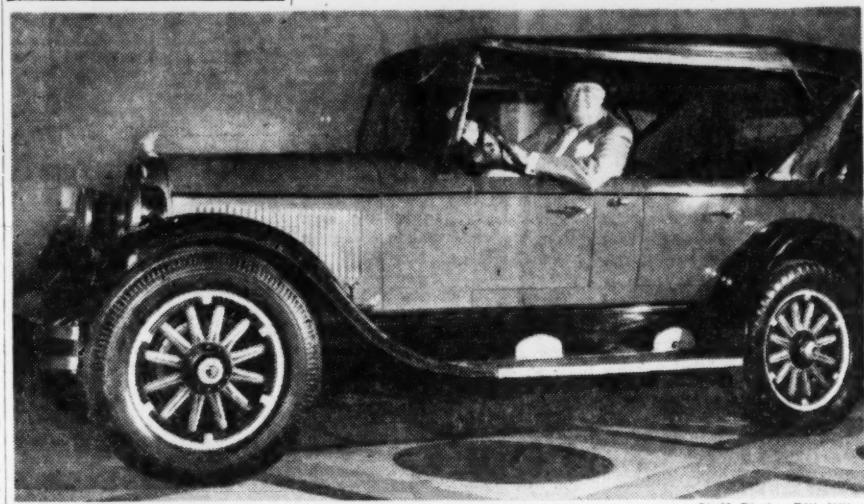

COST—The cost of living dipped slightly in February. The index then stood at 115 compared with 115.2 in January.

Sears' March Sales Drop 12.22 Per Cent

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—Sears, Roebuck & Co., leading retail and mail order firm, reported its sales in March were 12.22 per cent lower than a year ago. For February and March, the first two months of the company's fiscal year, the decline was 11.5 per cent.

March totaled $210,638,396 this year compared with $240,025,697 in 1953. For the two months this year the total was $386,194,096 as compared with $436,383,038 last year.

CELEBRATES 30TH YEAR HEADING REGION'S OLDEST CHRYSLER AGENCY
Harry Sommers Sits Proudly in 1925 Chrysler "90-Day Wonder"

Sommers Marks 30th Year As Chrysler Dealer Here

Harry Sommers, head of the oldest Chrysler automobile agency in the Southeast, affectionately patted the fender of the lanky old 1925 automobile that sits with Victorian dignity in the midst of gleaming 1954 models in the display room at 446 Spring St., NW.

The first model with a high-compression engine, it was the car that helped Sommers start a career back in the days when many a youngster opened an automobile agency in a backyard shed and all the bankers looked on automobile loans with frowns.

"That car was a sensation," Sommers recalled this week as he celebrated his 30th anniversary as a Chrysler dealer here. "It was advertised to travel 70 miles-plus an hour, and its competitors called it 'a 90-day wonder.'"

ARRIVED HERE IN 1922

A native of Philadelphia, Sommers came to Atlanta from Detroit in 1922 with the Packard Motor Co. and opened a Chrysler agency here on April 7, 1924.

Competition was more varied in those days, he says, with many makes of automobiles—like the Winton, the Peerless, the Flynt, the Columbia, the Diana—on the market. Sommers estimated he has seen at least 75 different makes of autos come and go since he first went into business.

As a Chrysler distributor, he worked with many adventurous Georgia youngsters who opened agencies in any "old shed" they could find. And the going was tough because bankers weren't taking "automobile paper."

"Now they look on it as if it had gilt edges," he smiled.

SMALL WHEEL

Sommers may be called a "pioneer" in auto design, too. During a sales meeting in Detroit in the 1920s, he argued that the Chrysler should have a small steering wheel like a competitor's car had.

Designers were reluctant, but the late company founder, Walter P. Chrysler, came out of his office the next morning with a wheel model.

"Say, Sommers," the old auto magnate queried, "is this what you want?" It was—and the next model boasted smaller steering wheels.

The Atlanta would probably deny being superstitious until he's pinned down on the "7-A" license plate decorating the '25 Chrysler.

"Yep," he says, "I've got the whole series of 7-A tags since that time. It must be lucky."

Stocks Pull Out of Fall Near Close

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—The stock market was beaten down hard today in a sharp selling wave, but it snapped back from its lows with vigor before the close.

Brokers in Wall Street said that concern over developments in the Indochina war was responsible for the selling. Whether that was in the minds of all sellers is debatable, but at least the war in Indochina was the excuse for the sudden dumping of stocks.

Values were under pressure all along the line with losses that extended to around 5 points at times. At the close, key averages displayed frequent losses of 1 to 3 points. Gains were small.

LOWER AT START

The market last Thursday reached a high for the year, and in the next two days hesitancy was apparent everywhere. Many were lured into the market by the continually mounting prices.

Professionals, however, stood ready to sell on any reaction that usually follows a sustained advance.

At the opening today the market was lower. It recovered from that depressed state and by early afternoon was generally higher.

Selling developed slowly until the fifth hour when it mounted in intensity until the ticker was unable to keep pace with floor transactions. It lagged as much as two minutes behind during a period of about 15 minutes, longest lag for the tape this year.

COFFEE MARKET

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Sanctus coffee futures were firm today on dealer and hedging and profit-taking. Switching from near to later months was moderately active. The green coffee market was firm but quiet.

Coffee spot market No. 4 closed at 93.00c. Cost and freight offerings include Santos Bourbon 34 at 93.50-95.50a and 94.00-95.00a.

COFFEE MARKET

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—There were scattered sales of print cloth and broad-cloth in the cotton textile market. Near-by goods were wanted mostly. It was reported that some mills producing acetates are curtailing production further because of a slow demand and unsatisfactory prices. The popular 40-square print cloth sold at low as 20 cents a yard, although most mills were holding at 20 1/2 cents.

In wool goods most of the ordering for the fall was said to be centering on woolen rather than worsted cloths.

In acetate goods small sales of acetate tafetas and crepes were noted. Tissue fabrics were reported in light supply with no pressure on prices despite the generally slow demand.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—(USDA)—Sizable hogs 7,000 market opened moderately active but general trade slow. 35-40 lower; most decline on weights under 250 lbs. Some of these weights as low as 250 lbs. were being sold at 25 cents a pound, although most mills were holding at 20 1/2 cents.

In wool goods most of the ordering for the fall was said to be centering on woolen rather than worsted cloths.

LOVE THAT STOCK...

It pays me 6% on my money. Management's alert and aggressive. The company keeps growing and growing and right now the outlook's better than ever.

Love that stock? Sure. Why shouldn't I? Maybe you should. Certainly it sounds good. But one word of caution: We don't like to see investors go completely overboard for any one stock—no matter how good it is.

And yet after time, they do.

Here at Merrill Lynch, for instance, our Research Department analyzes 40 to 50 thousand portfolios each year for investors. Time after time it comes across people who apparently have fallen in love with some stock—wouldn't think of buying anything else. Consequently, they wind up with a badly unbalanced portfolio, one that's far too vulnerable to any sudden shift in the economy.

If you think your own holdings may be overweighted in the direction of some one industry or stock... If you'd like to see a current analysis aimed at restoring proper diversification and balance to your investment program...

Just ask. Customer or not, there's no charge, no obligation of any kind. Simply address your letter to—

2 Agnes Scott Seniors Receive Wilson Grants

Two Agnes Scott seniors will be awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships providing tuition and expenses for a year of graduate work in their chosen fields, the college announced Tuesday. Florence Fleming of Augusta and Nancy Lee of Danville, Ky., are among 144 men and women college students selected for the award from 1,200 nominees in 367 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. Only 25 women were named winners and Agnes Scott was the only woman's college to have two winners. Miss Lee, who is majoring in Greek, will study toward the master's degree in English literature at Radcliffe College, Harvard University. Miss Fleming will continue her study in American history as a candidate for the master's degree at Emory University.

'Moor Born' Slated

The Agnes Scott Blackfriars will present "Moor Born," the story of the Bronte sisters, at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Presser Hall. Tickets are $1.00 and 50 cents.

Atlanta To Vie For Award on Curbing Noise

Atlanta has entered the Achievement Award competition in the National Noise Abatement Week. April 11-17, it was announced Tuesday. During the week, which is being observed for the 15th time since 1940, participating cities will highlight year-around educational efforts to reduce noise in streets, offices, factories and homes. Each city will compete for plaques awarded by the National Noise Abatement Council. Atlanta, Memphis and Jacksonville have won in recent years.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H. The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly.

"I wish you would say something about people who allow biting dogs to run loose. I have been bitten a half dozen times."—Signed "A Letter Carrier."

The postman, with his catalogs . . . and letters is disliked by dogs . . . and many of them bear more scars . . . than veterans of foreign wars . . . I'm not a postman, but I know . . . it's true, a postman told me so . . . and when I asked him, "am I right . . . that barking canines never bite . . ." he said, "oh, no, that isn't true . . . look at my leg, it's black and blue . . . not only did he bark at me . . . he 'barked' my shin, as you can see."

"They do me wrong who say that I . . . don't like the dogs. I always try . . . to be a friend, but when I fail . . . somebody's gonna miss their mail . . . they'll tell you neither snow or sleet . . . will stop a postman on his beat . . . but there is nothing in our code . . . that says we have to pack a load . . . of mail when someone keeps a pup . . . who wants to chew the postman up."

I guess that's all there is to say . . . about the postman, for today . . . except I might remind you that . . . most postmen do not "run to fat" . . . the daily walk keeps him in trim . . . there's not much nourishment in him . . . and there are foods a dog can eat . . . much tastier than postman-meat.

Motion Sickness
Remedies Discussed

Many new motion sickness remedies were introduced during the last decade and claims are made that the majority will give more than 90 per cent improvement when used properly.

Some of these compounds were found to be of value also in ordinary dizziness and in controlling the nausea and vomiting of pregnancy.

At the turn of the century, seasickness was a common topic of conversation because immigration was at its height.

Engineers designed ingenious devices to help prevent sea voyagers from developing motion sickness. Bessemer, the pioneer steelmaker, suspended passenger cabins on brackets.

Gyroscopic stabilizers were incorporated into the hull to control the roll of the ship. Others used projecting strips of metal along the length of the ship (bilge keels).

Today's travel problems are different. Automobile, train, and plane compete with lake steamers, ocean liners, and river boats.

The manufacturers of modern conveyances have done everything to make riding smooth but they have no control over nature. As a result, the problem of motion sickness had to be solved at the passenger level.

Motion sickness stems from a disturbance in the inner ear. To be more specific, motion affects the organ of balance, the bony labyrinth of the inner ear.

The nerves in this area are sensitive to rotary motion and when stimulated in an unusual manner, the individual encounters vertigo, nausea, sweating, and vomiting.

In the past, the old stand-bys were atropine, hyoscine, and scopolamine. Sedatives were recommended when psychological factors entered the picture.

Modern remedies include dramamine, scopodex, marezine, and bonamine. All have their devotees and since there are various symptoms in motion sickness, some products do a better job of relieving nausea, for example, whereas another is more effective against vomiting.

Manley Inauguration Scheduled at Spelman

By CLAUDE GEORGE

Dr. Albert E. Manley, the former dean of the college of arts and sciences at North Carolina College, who succeeded Dr. Florence M. Read as president of Spelman College, will be inaugurated at exercises in Sisters Chapel at 3 p.m. April 22.

Representatives from colleges and universities throughout the nation will attend two days of inaugural activities.

President Manley took up his duties at Spelman July 1. He has earned degrees from Johnson C. Smith University, Teachers College, Columbia University and Stanford University. He has been engaged in educational work more than 20 years, as a high school teacher and principal in Asheville, N.C., and as state inspector of Negro high schools in North Carolina.

Outstanding on the inauguration program will be addresses by two distinguished educators. Dr. Esther Lloyd Jones, Columbia University, will address audiences in Sisters Chapel at 10 a.m., and again at 7:30 p.m. April 21.

Dr. William W. Pierson, dean of the graduate school of the University of North Carolina, will address a luncheon meeting in Morgan Hall, April 22.

To take part in the inauguration are Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University; Benjamin E.

1,700 Expected To Gather Here For Hospital Conference Today

More than 1,700 persons from six Southeastern states are expected to attend the 17th annual Southeastern Hospital Conference at the Biltmore Hotel Wednesday through Friday.

Conference President Charles W. Holmes of Memphis said the three-day program will include special sessions devoted to the particular problems of each of the participating groups.

Participants include hospital administrators, dietitians, medical record librarians, nurse anesthetists, hospital pharmacists and members of women's hospital auxiliaries. Dr. Clark G. Kuebler, president of Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., will be the keynote speaker.

Baptist Church on Crumley street with Dr. S. M. Lewis as moderator. And on April 27, the forum will be held at St. Mark AME Church, Chestnut and Kenney streets, with Dr. H. E. Nash as moderator.

Morris Brown Day
A statewide celebration of Morris Brown College's founders day is set for April 27-30. Bishop Sherman L. Greene, presiding bishop of Georgia of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, will deliver the annual address.

The first day session will be held at St. Paul AME Church on McDaniel street. There will be two keynote speakers, Dr. George T. Simms of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Dr. R. W. Hilson of Birmingham, Alabama.

Other sessions will be held in the college chapel. Forty presiding elders, 700 pastors and lay representatives in Georgia will make reports.

Bishop Greene said $75,000 is the quota for this meeting.

Morris Brown faculty members and student body who recently held a fund raising campaign, will also make reports during the session.

NACCP Additions
Twelve members have been added to the NACCP education committee here "because of tremendous problems facing this committee." Dr. L. M. Terrill, chairman of the local branch, is among the new members.

Subcommittees have been established to make comparative "need" studies of Negro and white communities. Another subcommittee was named to study whatever ruling the U.S. Supreme Court hands down in the school segregation cases.

Student Action Day
Booker T. Washington High School will present its annual Cavalcade of Student Action at the city auditorium at 8:30 p.m. April 8. Every department of the school will be represented. Prof. C. D. Cornell announced.

Health Forum Sets
The Atlanta Medical Society will conduct a series of public health forums beginning April 6, 8:15 p.m. at Mount Moriah Baptist Church, Ashby and W. Fair sts.

The first panel will be composed of three doctors. Dr. Richard Billings will serve as moderator. The second forum will be conducted April 13 at Wheat Street Baptist Church on Auburn Avenue. Dr. Rammond H. Carter will act as moderator. On April 20, the forum will be at Mount Calvary.

Public Lectures Listed at Emory

Three public lectures, offered as the Walter T. Candler lecture series, will be presented at Emory University April 12, 14, and 15 by Dr. Louis B. Wright, director of the Folger Shakespeare Library at Washington, D.C.

Dr. Wright, who holds nine honorary degrees and is the author of eight books, is a member of the advisory board of the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation. His Emory lectures will be on the general subject of "The American Cultural Heritage." He will speak in the lobby of the Alumni Memorial Building at 8:15 p.m. on each night.

Sale of Fernbank Site For School Is Approved

DeKalb To Buy 13-Acre
Tract at Cost of $22,500

Trustees of Fernbank Forest have agreed to sell a 13-acre tract of the recreation area to the DeKalb County Board of Education as a future elementary school building site, Lee Burge, chairman of the board of trustees, said Tuesday.

SEEKS $2,500

Little League Open Drive In Glenwood

Promoters of the Glenwood Hills Little League have launched a financial campaign for $2,500, Frank G. Miller, fund drive chairman, reported Tuesday.

Miller said the Little League hopes to get its financial support from hundreds of residents in the Glenwood-Candler and South DeKalb areas rather than from a few business establishments or civic clubs.

The drive is aimed at donations of $2 or smaller from South DeKalb residents interested in the recreation program, Miller said. He said a $5-per-plate Little League banquet on May 5 will climax the drive.

The boys' baseball league was known as the Little League of South DeKalb last season, but was re-chartered this year as the Glenwood Hills Little League.

Boys interested in playing should report for training at 5 p.m. on April 12 at the county-community park on Glenwood Road. Application blanks can be obtained from school principals.

Decatur Officials To Discuss ROTC Inspection Plans

City and school officials of Decatur will meet Thursday with Decatur High School ROTC officers to discuss the ROTC unit's preparation for an annual federal inspection.

The luncheon meeting will be held at noon in the high school auditorium.

Capt. C. A. Rouse, head of the school's military training program, said those attending will include members of the Board of Education and the City Commission and others interested in Decatur's ROTC cadet program.

SECOND YEAR IN ROW

DeKalb Schoolboy Patrols To Lead Capital Parade

For the second consecutive year, School Safety Patrols from Decatur and DeKalb County will lead all other visiting patrol contingents in the annual nation-wide Safety Patrol parade in Washington, D.C.

Only the host patrol from Washington will be ahead of the DeKalb units in the giant parade May 8, DeKalb Police Lt. T. W. Smith said.

It will be the third parade in a row in which the DeKalb boys and girls have led other units from Georgia and the South, Smith added.

About 500 patrolers from DeKalb schools and 24 from Decatur schools will leave Atlanta May 7 to participate in the parade with thousands of other pupils from all over the U.S. The local group will sightsee in Washington and then in New York after the parade.

Smith and DeKalb Ptl. T. H. Spruill will be in charge of the special train carrying the patrolers. Decatur Ptl. Marion Whitley will be in charge of the Decatur unit.

The police officers were busy this week soliciting funds to finance the major portion of the patrol's trip. The boys and girls, selected on the basis of faithful patrol duty, good scholarship and good conduct, will pay only a small portion of the cost, Smith said.

The tract will be sold for $22,500, Burge said. About 50 acres of virgin woodland will remain in the non-profit recreation area, he added.

School Superintendent Jim Cherry confirmed the sale agreement between the Board of Education and the Fernbank trustees. Consummation of the sale awaits preparation of deeds, he said.

The sale agreement specifies that the tract, an open field at the rear of the forest area, will be used for a school site within five years or will be resold to the Fernbank trustees at the original purchase price.

Burge said the sale income will be placed in dividend-bearing investments and will be held for future capital developments in the recreation area.

The Fernbank trustee chairman said the school officials asked for the sale after a survey showed the need for a school in the immediate area of Fernbank.

Only the Fernbank field offered sufficient acreage for a school site, Burge said, and the trustees "reluctantly" agreed to the sale.

The forest recreation area is the property of Fernbank Forest, Inc., and is considered one of the best natural recreation areas within a metropolitan area in the U.S.

School officials said the Fernbank school will be one of three in Druid Hills that will take a pupil load from Druid Hills School. The Druid Hills plant will eventually be used as a high school only.

The first of the three proposed elementary schools, Briarvista, is already under construction. The Fernbank school and a third will be built later.

Fernbank Council To Meet Thursday

Members of the Fernbank Forest Council will meet with members of the Druid Hills Civic Assn. Thursday night to discuss plans for the 75-acre recreation area.

A box supper will be held by the civic group at 6:30 p.m. at Druid Hills School. The Fernbank meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m.

The council is being organized to guide future development of Fernbank. It will act in an advisory capacity to the board of trustees of the nonprofit corporation that owns the virgin woodland off Clifton road, NE.

$8,500 CD Rescue Unit Delivered to DeKalb

A 12,000-pound $8,500 Civil Defense Rescue Service truck, first of its type in Georgia, has been delivered to the DeKalb County fire department and will be put into service within two weeks.

The truck, which would carry a crew of eight trained rescue workers to dig out persons trapped in damaged buildings, is the heaviest and most completely equipped rescue vehicle now approved by federal CD engineers, Elliott Johnson, CD director for Metropolitan Atlanta, said.

The vehicle was purchased jointly by the metropolitan CD and DeKalb County. Priority is given for its use by CD, which can call it into service anywhere in the metropolitan area.

The 140-HP truck, to be stationed at DeKalb's Avondale fire station, will be available for all rescue work in the county.

DeKalb Fire Chief Mike Lynch and Assistant Chief D. P. Martin said instructors from the Atlanta fire department will begin training the rescue crew next week. Four men will be on duty with the truck at all times, Lynch said.

The vehicle, which carries 344 separate pieces of rescue and first aid equipment, has everything from wire cutters and hack saws to a jack that can lift up to 15 tons.

OXYGEN MASKS

Two oxygen-equipped rescue masks would allow workers to operate in underground situations where no oxygen is present. Regular gas masks are also carried.

A telephone powered by sound alone would enable rescuers to communicate with persons trapped underground.

A front-mounted winch on the truck could exert a 15,000-pound pull on debris that covered victims.

Canvas and wire litters, blankets and first aid equipment are stored inside the truck and in compartments on its sides. The vehicle could serve as an ambulance for at least four litter cases.

TWO-WAY RADIO

Lynch said the blue and white truck will be equipped with a two-way radio and additional equipment such as resuscitators for water victims.

The vehicle, which will be equipped with a siren and warning lights.

8 Teams Due For Decatur Y Ball League

Eight teams have been organized and will begin play next week in the Decatur YMCA-Civic Club baseball league, a bracket for players from Decatur High School's eighth grades.

The league is sponsored by the Decatur Civitan, Lions and Rotary Clubs and is under the direction of the Decatur-DeKalb branch, YMCA.

The teams will play for seven weeks.

Captain and co-captain, respectively, of the teams are: Peter Knox, M. C. King, Micmacs; Harrell Wall, Emory Webb, Wichitas; Candler Broome, Ted Abernathy, Chickasaws; Ralph Clark, D. H. Beam, Apaches; Wayne Guley, Neil Franklin, Aztecs; Eugene Mines, Harry Murdaugh, Navajos; Chuck Reiley, John Pelton, Cherokeees, and Jim Smith and James Segars, Mohawks.

Youths Think of H-Bomb In Manning CD Stations

Credited With Making Success
Of Ground Observers Exercise

With pictures of H-bomb destruction in mind, some 30 teenagers who manned the telephones at the Atlanta Filter Center helped make the latest statewide civil defense exercise a success.

The young volunteers took their jobs relating ground observers' information to Dobbin's Air Base with much more seriousness after seeing the H-bomb pictures, Capt. Donald Zeine, operations officer, said.

Destruction of Elugelab island pointed up the importance of the ground observation corps in preventing attacks on such targets as Atlanta, Capt. Zeine continued.

"Once the planes get over the target, there is nothing that can be done," he said. "The ground observer corps is the most efficient means developed to see that they are intercepted."

BLIND RADAR SPOTS

Enemy planes sometimes slip through "blind" spots in radar systems, Zeine explained. In such cases, it is up to the civilian volunteers to spot them in time for fighter planes to stop them before they reach their target.

That's why the teenagers were so serious-minded in taking the ground observer calls in Sunday's exercise and rushing them to the jet interceptor pilots at Dobbin's.

More than 1,500 spotters actively participated in the exercise, and several thousand others were alerted.

During the four-hour exercise, some 220 "tracks"—the spotting and following a plane's path—were made, the largest percentage for this length of time.

In past exercise, the ground observers have "tracked" every "enemy" plane in time for jets to intercept them before they reached Atlanta.

DIFFERENT FROM OTHERS

Sunday's exercise was different from others, Zeine said, because Civilian Air Patrol planes playing enemy roles were not told where to fly and tried to avoid detection. Zeine said more civilians have volunteered since the release of the H-bomb pictures, but still others are needed.

Winner in Garden Club Is Awarded Trophy She Had Donated for Show

Mrs. Randolph Wilkerson won her own trophy. Her pink geranium was awarded the trophy last week in the Colonial Garden Club's flower show.

Mrs. Wilkerson, who lives at 4 Maddox Dr., N.E., had donated the trophy to the club to be awarded each year to the club's tri-color horticulture winner. She was the first winner.

Other winners in the show were Mrs. W. B. Thompson, Mrs. Dwight Horton, Mrs. Meritt Alexander, Mrs. J. E. Gunby, Mrs. Jiroud Jones, Mrs. Richard Hills, Mrs. Harris Dew, Mrs. Herman Jones, Mrs. E. S. Candler, Mrs. J. W. Simmons, Mrs. Asa Candler, Mrs. Albert Woodruff Jr., Mrs. Frank Gaither.

Mrs. Fred Boardman, Mrs. William Brooks, Mrs. C. P. Taylor, Mrs. Robert Wardle Jr., Mrs. William Whitaker, Mrs. Clyde Baylor, Mrs. W. R. Thompson, Mrs. Sam Candler and Mrs. W. M. St. Clair.

CLUB NOTES

Street Dance To Highlight Spring Festival April 23

A street dance will feature the annual Spring Festival of the North Clairmont Woman's Club to be held April 23. The festival will be held in front of the club's new home on Candler road.

The "Swing Billies" will furnish music for the dancing. Booths and games will be open in the afternoon for the children. Among the booths will be a country store and sweet shop.

A door prize will also be awarded. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. G. W. Hanson at 47-3066.

Literature Session

The Modern Literature Group of the American Association of University Women will meet at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John McLoughlin, 3790 N. More Dr., N.E. A new biography of Albert Schweitzer by George Seaborn will be reviewed by Mrs. Francis M. Hill.

Language Program

The Foreign Languages Department of Northside High School presented a program Tuesday at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The Latin students led a panel on the value of languages in cul-

Work Begins On Annex at St. Philip's

Another step has been taken in the building program of St. Philip's Cathedral with the groundbreaking for the Hall of Bishops.

The hall will contain an auditorium, kitchen, church school rooms, choir rooms, dressing rooms and other facilities. The women's auxiliary of the cathedral has begun a collection of portraits of bishops of the diocese of Atlanta, past and present, to be placed on the walls.

They began the collection with portraits of the late Bishops John Moore Walker and Joseph B. Walthour.

DeOvis Hall also will be enlarged during the building program. The church, organized in 1949, was formerly known as the Candler Road Presbyterian Church.

The building is of brick and steel construction and its sanctuary seats 200 persons. Sunday school rooms, dining room and kitchen are in the basement.

The Rev. Mr. Mace came to the church as a student supply pastor in 1952 while attending Columbia Seminary. Following his graduation he was issued a formal call as minister and was installed Sunday during the church dedication.

The first pastor of the church was the Rev. C. O. Williams of Gastonia, N.C. He was followed by the Rev. J. G. Bravley who preceded the Rev. Mr. Mace.

Wehunt Heads N. DeKalb Planning Council Slate

A new slate of officers headed by G. Al Wehunt will be installed by the North DeKalb Planning Council April 27.

The North DeKalb Planning Council is made up of presidents of all civic and service clubs in the area and pastors or designated members of the churches.

Wehunt succeeds Larry Kepler as president.

Other officers to be installed are Bill Lozier, first vice president; Mrs. H. C. Stewart, second vice president; Harvey Albea, treasurer; Mrs. E. G. Spuhler, recording secretary, and Mrs. John Kell Martin, corresponding secretary.

At a recent meeting the council heard Tom Fleming, county parks engineer, report on Murphey Candler Park. Fleming said the dam was about two-thirds completed for the 65-acre lake. He added that the basin will be ready to fill by June.

The council is sponsoring the park and, under the direction of the park committee, has been conducting a fund drive to match $35,000 furnished by the county.

Wehunt said the contributions are still coming in.

The council also heard a report from Mrs. H. C. Stewart, chairman of the Brookhaven Library, a project of the organization.

The report on the North DeKalb Health Center, another planning council project, was made by Miss Ann Williams, public health nurse.

Naval Officers' Wives Club Picks New Leaders

The Officers' Wives Club of the Naval Air Station recently elected Mrs. W. P. Riley Jr. president.

Mrs. Riley was elected at a regular meeting held at the Officers Club.

Other officers are Mrs. N. L. Durocher vice president; Mrs. C. A. Thurston, secretary; Mrs. R. F. Nassioy, treasurer, and Mrs. Paul Dennis, member at large.

Committee chairmen appointed by Mrs. Riley are Mrs. A. T. Ware, nominating; Mrs. R. L. Burdick, constitution and by-laws; Mrs. E. Phillips, membership; Mrs. J. A. Konrad, publicity; Mrs. M. D. Pittard, program, and Mrs. R. F. Buckley and Mrs. Ted Maddox Jr., hostesses.

Highlander Band Slates 3 Programs

Mrs. Evelyn Sisk, director of the Northside Elementary Highlander Band, has announced the band will perform three times in April and May.

Thesday, the band will play at the Parent-Teacher Assn. meeting at E. Rivers School. On April 30, the organization will participate in the activities program of Garden Hills School at North Fulton High School, and on May 21 the band will join the Emory Glee Club in a program sponsored by the Buckhead Civic Club at Chastain Memorial Park.

The Highlander Band is made up of elementary school students of six Northside schools. The band recently won a superior rating for the second consecutive year at the state music festival in Carrollton.

Meanwhile, the Band Parents Assn. has elected Jimmy Peacock as president.

Other officers are Mrs. E. R. Weston, vice president; William Eidson, treasurer; John W. Hardwick Jr., secretary; Mrs. W. H. Flaherty, recording secretary, and Mrs. T. M. McClelland, insurance chairman.

College Park Bond Vote Scheduled for May 24

The College Park City Council has scheduled a referendum for May 24 to decide on a $475,000 bond issue for financing municipal improvements.

C. of C. Membership Invited to E. P. Meet

Directors of the East Point Chamber of Commerce will hold an unprecedented quarterly meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday with the chamber's entire membership invited.

Mrs. Thelma Hughes, chamber director, said the meeting was scheduled to allow members to see the directors "in action." Committee reports and a business session will follow a dinner at the Hapeville VFW Clubhouse at Judy's Lake.

U.S. Filling Warehouse at East Point

Government materials are already being shipped in to a $1,500,000 warehouse now nearing completion at 2110 Lawrence Ave., East Point.

The warehouse, which will house all supplies to clean and operate federal offices in seven states, will hold an inventory valued at $2,250,000. More than 9,000 different items—from paper clips to desks—will be stored there.

When completed, the building will be operated by the government's General Services Administration.

The building has 410,000 square feet of floor space. It features a fully equipped modern laboratory, in which each GSA shipment is inspected and lab-tested.

The building also has a slanting roof for natural drainage, gas heating and fluorescent lighting, and an integral transportation system within the warehouse. The "towveyor" system will enable only 39 employees to operate the warehouse stores division and five to handle its inspection system.

A 24-car dock beside the building near Central of Georgia spur tracks serves as a freight loading and unloading point.

According to J. A. Meyer, chief of GSA warehouse branch, the building will be completely outfitted by April 1.

East Point Book Distribution Set

Ten thousand brochures on the City of East Point, under preparation for several months, are soon to be distributed by the East Point Chamber of Commerce.

Included are photographs of representative scenes of business, residential and municipal property, an indexed map of the city which shows all municipal, club, park and school properties.

CLUB NOTES

8 Projects Receive Funds From Inter-City Civitans

Nearly $1,000—a portion of profits of a pre-Christmas fruit cake sale—has been allotted by the Inter-City Civitan Club to eight charities and civic endeavors under a newly adopted projects budget.

Another $1,000 profit from the sale, during which Civitans sold more than three tons of fruit cake, was channeled to the club's foundation fund.

Broken down, the budget included:

Atlanta Christian College, $200; South Fulton Y. $300; 4-H Camp at Chapman Springs, $200; Tithers, Inc., scholarship, $100; retarded children, $57; South Fulton student forums, $40; Metropolitan Voters Council, $10, and schoolboy patrol trip, $40.

Easter Egg Hunt

College Park's American Legion Post No. 50 is planning an Easter egg hunt for 2:30 p.m. Easter Sunday on the lawn of the College Park City Auditorium. The hunt will be for children under 13 years old. The post will hold its regular meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the clubhouse.

Commander Pat Smith said the post had almost finished redecorating a 1924 model American LaFrance fire engine given the post a year ago by College Park. The 30-year-old machine will be outfitted with a loudspeaker and used to promote civic projects.

Named for Trip

Five Tri-Cities youngsters who are to be sponsored on the annual School Safety Patrol trip to Washington, D.C., in May by Hapeville's American Legion Post No. 117, have been named by Legion officials.

They are Lois Franklin, North Avenue School, Hapeville; Harry

'No Parking' Signs Go Up In 6 Areas

Six new "no parking" zones have been established by the Hapeville City Council.

Affected by the ordinance are stretches along North Avenue, Jonesboro Road, Virginia Avenue, Elm Street and Lake Drive.

On the southerly side of North Avenue from Myrtle Street to Sylvan Road.

On the south side of North Avenue from Jackson Street to Jonesboro Road.

On the east side of Virginia Avenue beginning at Central Avenue and running in a southerly direction 135 feet.

On the east side of Elm Street beginning at Central Avenue and running south 320 feet.

On the south side of Lake Drive from Stewart Avenue to Jackson Street.

On both sides of Jonesboro Road, eliminating all parking from Moreland Way to Mt. Zion Avenue.

The ordinance also calls for suitable signs and markings in these locations in order that the zones may easily be recognized, and sets up maximum penalties for violating the ordinance at fines up to $250 and/or 30 days in jail following conviction in the Hapeville Recorder's Court.

ATLANTA WON'T PARTICIPATE

Rodeo Field Narrowed To Students of Tri-Cities

Entrants in the South Fulton Jaycees Teen-Age Rodeo, set for April 24, will be selected from four Tri-Cities schools, Jaycee officials said this week.

Some nine high schools in the Atlanta and Fulton County systems, previously had been invited to take part in the contest, but Atlanta school officials decided against participating. A Jaycee official said this week.

Participants will be selected on basis of written examinations from Russell, College Park, Hapeville and Fairburn high schools.

In the meantime, Jaycee committees are going ahead with plans for the teen-age driving contest. Winner of the South Fulton contest will be eligible to enter the state rodeo at Milledgeville on April 28.

State winners will compete for $3,100 in scholarships and prizes in the national contest Aug. 10-14 in Washington, D.C.

Some 80,000 teen-agers took part in more than 600 such competitions last year.

Dain Domich, national Jaycee president, said the project has been "widely acclaimed by law enforcement, safety and school authorities as a positive program to encourage teen-agers to become expert drivers."

Locally, the rodeo is under co-chairmanship of Warren Owens and John Ferguson.

Other committees include Bill Bell and Tom James, course location and equipment; Perry Hudson and Lorenzo Jones, judging and scoring; Billy Stephenson and J. C. Stone, prizes; Forbes Stakeley and Tom Matthews, concessions; O. B. Matthews, manpower, and Jim McClendon, entries and screening.

Hapeville Housing Authority Books Win Approval on Routine Check

Books and records of the Hapeville Housing Authority, given their first complete check recently by an auditor of the Atlanta office of the Public Housing Authority, have been given a "clean bill of health."

Robert B. McCord, executive director of the Hapeville organization, said examination of the records was a routine check to see that books and records were up to date.

Meanwhile, status of the authority remains unchanged, the Hapeville official pointed out, until official notice is received from the Atlanta office whether the authority is to go ahead with its plans for low-rent housing or to "close up shop."

McCord was referring to the recent congressional move defeating President Eisenhower's public housing program which would have provided additional units for the housing program in future years.

Andrews Ruled Sane, Released; Debate on Pay Revived in Council

Tom A. Andrews, former East Point police captain who was committed to the Milledgeville State Hospital following a shooting affray with fellow officers, has been ruled sane and released, Dr. T. G. Peacock, hospital director, said yesterday.

Dr. Peacock said an examining board had ruled Andrews was suffering from a "drug psychosis" on Nov. 2 when the shooting incident occurred.

The board ruled in addition that Andrews had "not shown any insanity" since he had been at the hospital and therefore was released Monday and had returned to his East Point home, Peacock said.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

Andrews was sent to the hospital in mid-February after a Fulton County Superior Court jury found him not guilty of assault charges growing out of the shooting incident, on account of insanity.

Meanwhile, East Point City Council Monday heard an appeal by Guy Parker, Andrews' attorney, for action on the former officer's appeal for sick-leave pay and pensions.

Council previously voted to pay Andrews $1,050 in back salary up to Feb. 15 when Police Chief W. H. Tyler officially dismissed Andrews for "inability to perform police duties." Andrews was automatically suspended Nov. 8 when he was indicted in the shooting case.

Action on Andrews' appeal of dismissal was delayed to allow Andrews to appear personally before the board following his release from Milledgeville. The pension board previously refused to consider Andrews application for a disability pension on grounds he furnished "insufficient information."

ACTION VETOED

Mayor Al Roberts, however, vetoed council's action and repeatedly refused Monday night to entertain motions by Councilman J. Henry Blair to pay Andrews. Roberts also refused to entertain motions to overrule himself on grounds the matter was closed because his veto had previously been sustained.

Blair and Councilmen Fred Etris and Craig Finyan insisted that the motion and their votes be recorded. Roberts refused this also, contending such action was against provisions of the city charter.

Roberts said the city should not take any action on paying any sum to Andrews until a definite date of Andrews removal from city service is established. The Feb. 15 date is not sufficient, he added, because the dismissal has been appealed by Andrews.

What should be done, Roberts said, is for Andrews, through his wife who has been appointed as his guardian, to officially resign from city employment in order that a definite date may be established.

LENGTHY DEBATE

After lengthy debate, council agreed to have its police committee meet with the city pension board to decide what action should be taken. This was suggested by Councilman R. C. Astin as a means to "end this controversy, once and for all."

Release of Andrews at the date when Mrs. Andrews appointment as his guardian became final presents East Point with another problem, Roberts said.

"In order for her to be appointed guardian, they had to prove that Andrews was incompetent," Roberts added. "Now the examining board says he's sane."

"Therefore, he's running around East Point with a guardian, and as a result, could not be held responsible for anything he does," the mayor said.

FBI Conducts School For Area's Policemen

A four-week police training school for officers in Clayton County and the Tri-Cities area opened Tuesday at the East Point police station.

Conducted by instructors from the Atlanta office of the FBI, the course is to be conducted Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays through April 29.

The course is open to policemen from East Point, College Park, Hapeville, Forest Park, Clayton County and others who wish to attend.

3 One-Act Plays To Be Staged by Hapeville Seniors

Three one-act plays—featuring comedy, mystery and drama—will be presented by Hapeville High School's senior class Friday in the high school auditorium.

L. L. Deck Jr., director, said the titles are "The Roman Kid," "Seeds of Suspicion" and "Itching to Get Hitched."

Pat Mann and Shirley Hampton will have top roles in the dramatic Paul Gallico story, "The Roman Kid"; Felix Sibley and Sue Weinberg will star in the British mystery, "Seeds of Suspicion," and Carole Camp and Boe Davis have the leads in the hillbilly farce, "Itching to Get Hitched."

A variety program will be presented before curtain time and between acts by the school band, under direction of M. T. Crisman. Tickets may be purchased from class members. Price is 75 cents.

Russell Students Awarded Prize For Directory

Russell High School's Home Demonstration Club has won an award at the annual convention of Distributive Education Clubs of Georgia for the third straight year.

The Russell club received a trophy for having the most outstanding individual project of Georgia clubs—preparation of a school directory.

The DE group in 1952 and 1953 won honors for being the most outstanding DE group in the state based on all activities.

Curtis Martin, Russell student, was selected as North Central district delegate to the National Distributive Education Convention at San Antonio.

Pre-School Group Schedules Meet

An information session for mothers of pre-school age children who will be starting in the first grade this fall will be held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at the College Street School in Hapeville.

During the session, given by the Pre-School Assn. of the College Street and North Avenue schools, Fulton County health and elementary school officials will answer questions for mothers on regulations and forms to be prepared.

Hapeville Hits P.O. Merger

Hapeville City Council has joined the councils of East Point and College Park in passing resolutions opposing the study toward combining small municipal post offices with the Atlanta Post Office.

In a special meeting recently council authorized Rex T. Reeves, city attorney, to draw up the resolution, and have copies of it sent to members of Georgia's congressional delegation.

Council also specified copies of the resolution be sent to the U.S. postmaster general, the national head of the Republican party, head of the Republican Party in Fulton County, to Atlanta's superintendent of mails, and to presidents of all South Fulton civic organizations.

Meanwhile, city government representatives of all three of the Tri-Cities have rejected arguments on the consolidation put forth by George C. Harris, assistant inspector in charge of the Atlanta Postal Division, who is conducting the post office merger study.

Speaking before the East Point Chamber of Commerce, Harris said the study thus far had revealed a savings of $175,000 to $200,000 per year would result, in addition to better distribution of mail.

Hapeville Mayor Eugene Dixon, who attended the meeting along with College Park mayor Mal T. Anderson, members of the East Point Council, and representatives of civic groups, said confusion of mail already has resulted from Blair Village mail—which is in Atlanta—being served through the Hapeville Post Office.

Harris said costs would be cut by reducing present postmasters to the title of superintendent of mails, and thereby slashing their salaries. Present post offices would be maintained as they are, he said, but as Atlanta Post Office branches.

The savings, Harris explained, would result from eliminating postmasters from 10 Fulton towns, and also by halting the use of temporary workers at the small offices.

In connection with the survey, East Point Mayor Al Roberts said study of the East Point Post Office is now underway, and Mayor Anderson said College Park's Post Office already has been investigated.

NO TIME OUT Girl Cagers To Practice In Summer

While most Tri-Cities basketball teams have already stored their uniforms and equipment until next season, practice is still underway at the Georgia Baptist Children's Home.

And for the girls basketball team at the Children's Home, basketball practice will be a summer-long affair this year.

Ashton Russell, athletic director at the home, explains the home is putting on an extra effort this year to improve its girls basketball team showing, which in past years, has been the home's "lowest sport" in winning efforts.

"We're going to work with the team all this summer in order that we can have a real come-back next season," Russell said.

Bowns' Morris Wins Science-Teacher Award

J. Edgar Morris, science teacher at Brown High School, has received one of 15 top awards in a national contest for outstanding teachers of science.

Morris joined the faculty at Brown in 1947, following his retirement from the Army Chemical Corps. He retired with the rank of colonel.

CASH PRIZE

The recognition award includes a cash prize which Morris says will be used to buy new equipment for the science honor class at the school, which he helped found.

He was nominated for the teaching prize by his pupils in this class.

The award was announced in Chicago at the annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The teacher recognition awards were co-sponsored by that association, the National Science Teachers Assn., the American Society for Metals, and the Future Scientists of America Assn.

A key factor in Morris' selection was his work with the science honor class, 15 members of which have won science prizes in the past several years.

WINNING PROJECTS

Some of the students and their projects which have won science prizes include: Jerry Ayres, who took a national prize for his home-made planetarium; Richard Dix, who got a national prize for his methods for testing house insulation materials; Jeannette Samples, who received a full scholarship to Emory University for an experiment testing the effects of eating or not eating breakfast on anemia in 1,700 students and adults; Eleanor Wright, who received an Agnes Scott scholarship for experiments in chromatography; and Clyde Ware, who won a prize for construction of a radio-controlled airplane.

Morris emphasizes that equal credit for the award is due other members of the Brown High faculty, which include K. B. Edwards, department head; Mrs. M. H. Floyd, physics; Miss Betty Campbell, biology; and Mrs. Claud L. Beeson, biology.

Morris says he and the other science teachers at Brown take a practical approach, using everyday scientific appliances and problems as starting points. But they also take great pains not to strait-jacket a student's scientific curiosity.

BASIC GROUNDING

Starting in the ninth grade, students who show unusual ability and liking for science may join the science honor class. This course gives them a basic grounding in physics, biology and chemistry, plus a license to let their curiosity lead them into experiments of their own conception.

Students in this class are selected on the basis of a general IQ test, plus the judgment of the entire science faculty after observing the student during the first quarter of the ninth grade science classes.

Morris says he doubts if there is any such thing as "inborn scientific ability." He thinks a student who shows unusual ability in science is one whose high intelligence and unusually strong curiosity have been channeled in that direction by a sympathetic parent or teacher.

Brown High was the only Southwest high school to receive recognition at the recent Chicago meeting.

'Y' To Join Breakfast Observance

Members of the West Fulton YMCA's board of management will join YMCA officials of five Southern states at a simultaneous Christian Emphasis breakfast Tuesday at 7 a.m.

The breakfast here will be held at Sulzer's Cafe. Other Southern YMCA officials will attend similar breakfasts in their own cities and states at the same hour.

Dave C. Hale, chairman of the West Fulton Christian Emphasis committee, will lead the West End program.

The Rev. J. L. Black, minister of the Capitol View Methodist Church, and the Rev. Frank C. Jones, minister of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, will give brief inspirational addresses on the layman's role in emphasizing Christianity in everyday life.

Joel Knight, chairman of the West Fulton YMCA board of management, will give a report on the recent meeting of the YMCA Southern Area Council meeting held in Atlanta.

CHURCH NOTES

Dr. Brokhoff To Conduct Easter Rites

Dr. John R. Brokhoff, minister of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will lead the sunrise service in Westview Cemetery Easter Sunday at 6 a.m.

Ward Duvall, will direct the hymn singing and Eugene Echman, director of music at Grace Methodist Church, will present special organ music.

A quartet composed of Edwin Johnson, Robert Morris, LeRoy Howell, and John Parker will offer special songs.

The service is expected to conclude by 6:50 a.m. so as not to interfere with other early morning Easter services in the community.

Civic club members will help direct traffic. Boy Scouts will distribute programs and a color guard from Ft. McPherson will present the colors.

The Rev. Clarence Sessions, the Rev. Frank Jones, the Rev. J. F. Von Landingham, and the Rev. J. L. Griggs will assist at the service.

Youths Hold Offices

Young people of the Cascade Baptist Church have assumed all church offices this week.

Dr. O. M. Siegler, pastor, listed those participating as Tommy Scott, pastor; Jackie Paulk, educational director; Bill Hasty, music director; Bill Willis, chairman of deacons; Martha Sudderth, organist; Ernest Johnson, chairman of the finance committee; Henry Whitworth, church clerk; Jimmy Waters, Sunday school superintendent; Earl Burkham, Training Union director; Pete Green, Brotherhood president; and Mrs. H. C. Starling, Women's Missionary Union president.

The youth officers have complete charge of the Sunday morning worship services, the Wednesday prayer meeting and met with the Board of Deacons on Tuesday night.

Junior Stewards

Junior stewards were installed at the Park Street Methodist Church at the Sunday night service.

They were: Richard Dix, Roy Copeland, Virgil Copeland, Richard Dickson, Bobby Edgerton, Joe Bosch, Ronnie James, Buck Sims, Mickey Sims, Fred Todhunter, Jerry Yarbrough, Robert Duffey, Gary Caldwell, Dickey Carlsen, Robert Griggs, Stanley Turner, Betty Drew, Joyce Gardner, Jo Ann James, Joanne McLeone, Joan Mooney, Jackie Peters, Maxine Richardson, Sarah Upshaw, Harriet Ware, Neva Ware, Barbara Epps, Rachel Lasiter and Martha Penland.

Uncle Remus Group Hears Brown Singers

The Uncle Remus Memorial Assn. heard a section of the girls' glee club of Brown High school at its meeting Tuesday at the Wren's Nest.

Miss Margaret Swain conducted the glee club. Mrs. Alva Gregg, music chairman for the Uncle Remus group, was in charge of the program.

Billie Barfield, ventriloquist, a student at J. C. Harris school, and Barbara Barfield, student at Brown High School, gave selected readings.

Mrs. James H. Aldredge, president, presided at the meeting.

Brown Nine's Record Leads Area After First-Week Play

Brown High is leading the three southwest area high school baseball teams after the first week of the 1954 season.

Brown has defeated two opponents—Northside, 14-4, and North Fulton, 6-3.

Southwest is second among West End teams with a 1-1 record so far this season. The squad held O'Keefe scoreless for a 5-0 win, but lost to West Fulton by the same score.

ONE TIE

Sylvan has one tie and one defeat in its first two games. The tie, 11-11, was with Northside, while the loss was to North Fulton, 7 to 4.

Pitchers are J. B. Hendrix, Jimbo Towery and Jimmy Archer.

High School Seniors Join Vote Canvass

Seniors from West End's three high schools joined in the house-to-house canvass of prospective voters of southwest Atlanta in the "March for Democracy" Tuesday night.

Pamphlets explaining the procedure for vote registrants and the deadline date for registering were distributed at each home in the high school areas.

SEEK ELIGIBLES

Persons who are 18 or will become 18 during this year may register with the Fulton County registrar on or before May 1 to be eligible to vote in the fall primary.

The registrar's office, located in the Fulton County Courthouse annex, will remain open until 9 p.m. each night April 6 through the 16 to accommodate late registrants.

Students who led and participated in the "March for Democracy" class of each high school.

STUDENT LEADERS

Southwest: Wallace Kilpatrick, president of the senior class; Jimmy Towery, president of the student body; Bobbie Lee Evans, march committee chairman; Tom Inman, Hoke Archer, Jimmy Archer, Raymond Minor, Jimmy Curlee, Jimmy Towery, Bobbie Jean Evans, Carol Zuker, Bill Prince, Jack Giles, Eugene Whitlock, Donald McNair, Robert Pirkle, Kay Bond, Joe Cobb and Melba Jean Schwall, group leaders.

Renovated Bank Branch To Be Opened

The First National Bank of Atlanta will officially open its renovated and enlarged West End office Saturday by holding open house from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The branch, under the new setup, has banking room area for 23 tellers, and a new, below-the-street level section which contains a new vault, and an employees' lounge and recreation room.

The new officers' section has been considerably enlarged, and the consumer credit department has been expanded.

The bank's West End office is located on the corner of Lee and Wadewitz, Sylvan, and Donald (Chub) Jenkins, Southwest.

Trim Killings by Erasing Slum Areas, Webb Asks

High homicide rates among Negroes will continue so long as Fulton County citizens refuse to "pay the price necessary to eliminate slums among this part of the West End," Sol. Gen. Paul Webb told members of the West End Kiwanis Club.

Webb said the Atlanta area murder rate is a problem arising from "passion, ignorance and poverty" rather than inadequate law enforcement.

Denying that the homicide rate here is climbing, Webb cited figures to show that Fulton's homicide rate is only half what it was in 1928, despite a large population increase.

He said 74 homicides were reported in 1953 compared to 113 in 1928. All but three of the 74 killings were of Negroes, by Negroes, he said.

"When 30 per cent of your people live in slums with only gambling, liquor and women for recreation, you are bound to have a lot of killings," Webb said.

Arrest and trial is the limit of possible action by law enforcement officers, including prosecutors, in homicide cases, he said. The solution lies with "the citizenry and our social, economic and spiritual institutions," Webb concluded.

Webb said the 74 persons who committed homicides last year were arrested and brought to trial. Two were electrocuted, 19 got life sentences, 22 got sentences totaling more than 200 years, six were acquitted and one adjudged insane, he said.
